HEROIC WORK IN BLOCKADING OSTEND IS VIVIDLY PICTURED

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 14.—The Admiralty has issued the following graphic story of the Ostend operation: "Dunkirk, May 11: The Sirius lies in the surf some 2000 yards east of the entrance to Ostend Harbor, which she failed so gallantly to block, and when in the early hours of yesterday morning the Vindictive groped her way through the smoke screen and headed for the entrance it was as though the old fighting ship awoke and looked on. A coastalm motor boat had visited her and hung a flare in her stack and rusty rigging, and ye of unsteady fire, paling in the blaze of star shells, or reddening through the drift of smoke, watched the whole great enterprise from the moment when it hung in doubt to its ultimate triumphant success.

attempt. That was to be the first element in the surprise. A time table had been laid down for every stage of the operation, and the staff work beforehand even included precise orders for laying the smoke barrage, with plans calculated for every direction of the wind.

"Monitors anchored in firing positions far seaward awaited the signal. The great sea batteries of the Royal Marine artillery in Flanders, among the largest guns that were ever placed on land mountings, stood by likewise to neutralize the bigger artillery along the coast and the airmen who were to collaborate with an aerial bombardment of the town, waited somewhere in the darkness overhead. Destroyers patrolled to seaward of the small craft.

"The Vindictive, always at a solemn gait, found the flagship's light buoy and bore up for where a coastal motorboat commanded by Lieut. William P. Slayter was waiting by a calcium flare upon the old position of the Stroom Bank buoy.

GUS ROAR OUT

"Four minutes before she arrived there, and fifteen minutes only before she was due at the harbor mouth, the signal for the guns to open was given. Two motorboats under command of Lieut. Albert L. Poland dashed in toward the ends of the high wooden piers and torpedoed them. There was a machine gun on the end of the western pier and that vanished in a roar and leap of flames.

"Over the town a flame suddenly appeared high in the air and sank slowly earthward—the signal that the airplanes had seen and understood. Almost coincidentally with their first bombs came the first shells, whooping up from the monitors at sea. The surprise part of the attack was sprung. The surprise, despite the Germans' watchfulness, seems to have been complete. Up until the moment when the torpedoes of the motor boats exploded there had not been a shot from the land—only occasional routine star shells.

"The motor launches were doing their work magnificently. These perfect warships, manned by officers and men of the royal naval volunteer reserve, are specialists at smoke production. They built to either hand of the Vindictive's course the likeness of a dense sea mist, driving landward with the wind. Star shells paled and were lost as they sank in its beams of searchlights, and seemed to break off short upon its front. It blinded the observers in the great batteries, which suddenly, upon the warning of the explosions of guns, roared into action.

"There was tremendous uproar. The coast about Ostend is ponderously equipped with batteries, each with a name known and identified as Von Tirpitz, Von Hindenburg, Deutschland, Cecilia and the rest. They register from 6-inch to monsters of 15-inch naval pieces in land turrets, and the royal marine artillery fights a war-long duel with them. These now opened fire into the smoke, and over it, at the monitors and marines. And the monitors replied.

"Meanwhile the airplanes were bombing methodically and anti-aircraft guns were searching the skies for them. Star shells spouted up and floated down, lighting the smoke banks with spreading green fires, and those strings of luminous green balls, which the airmen call 'flaming onions,' soared up, to lose themselves in the clouds.

AEROS ACTIVE

"Through all this stridency and blaze of conflict the old Vindictive, still unhurrying, was walking the lighted waters toward the entrance. It was then that those on the destroyers became aware that what seemed merely smoke was wet and cold; that the rigging was beginning to drip, and that there were no longer any stars. A sea fog had come on.

"The destroyers had to turn on their lights and use their sirens to keep in touch with each other. The air attack was suspended and the Vindictive, with some distance yet to go, found herself.

"There were motorboats on either side of her escorting her to the entrance. These were supplied with what are called Dover flares ,enormous lights capable of illuminating square miles of sea. At once every pistol was fired as a signal to light these, but the fog and smoke together were too dense for even the flares.

"The Vindictive then put her helm over and started to cruise to find the entrance.

SEES ENTRANCE

"Twice she must have washed across and at the third turn, upon reaching the position at which she first lost her way, there came a rift in the mist and she saw the entrance and the piers on either side, and an opening dead ahead.

"The motorboat Up No. 22, commanded by Acting Lieutenant Guy L. Cocklyn, raced on into the opening under heavy and momentarily growing fire, and planted a flare on the water between the piers. The Vindictive steamed over it and on. She was in.

"The guns found her at once. She was hit every few seconds after she entered, her scarred hull broken afresh in a score of places, her decks and upper works swept by machine guns. The machine gun at the end of the western pier had been put out of action by a motorboat's torpedo, but from other machine guns at the in-shore end of the pier from a position on the front and from machine guns apparently firing over the eastern pier, there converged upon her a hail of lead.

"After her control was demolished by a shell which killed all the occupants, including Sub-Lieut. Angus H. MacLachan, who was in command of it, the upper and lower bridges and the chart room, swept by bullets, Commander Godsal ordered the officers to go with him to the conning tower. They observed through the observation slit in the steel wall of the conning tower that the eastern pier was breached some 200 yards from the seaward end, as though at some time a ship had been in collision with it.

SHIP HITS PIER

"They found the front of the town silhouetted again and again in the light of the guns that blazed at them. The night was a patchwork of fire and darkness.

"Immediately after passing the breach in the pier, Commander Godsal left the conning tower and went on deck, the better to watch the ship's movements. He chose a position and called in through the slit of the conning towar his order to starboard the helm. The Vindictive responded and laid her battered nose to the eastern pier and prepared to swing her 320 feet of length across the channel.

"It was at that moment that a shell from the shore batteries struck the conning tower. Lieut. Sir John Alleyne and Lieut. V. A. C. Crutchley were still within. Commander Godsal was closed to the tower outside. Lieut. Alleyne was stunned by the shock. Lieut. Crutchley shouted through the slit to the commander and receiving no answer, rang for the port engine full speed astern, to help the swinging ship. By this time she was lying at an angle of about 40 degrees to the pier and seemed to be hard fast; so it was impossible to bring her further around.

"After working the engines some minutes to no effect, Lieut. Crutchley gave the order to clear the engine room and abandon ship, according to the programme previously laid down. Engineer Lieutenant-Commander William A. Bury, who was the last to leave the engine room, blew the main charges by a switch installed aft.

VINDICTIVE SINKS

"Lieut. Crutchley blew the auxiliary charges in the forward six-inch magazine from the conning tower.

"Those on board felt the old ship shrug as the explosives tore the bottom plates and bulkheads from her. She sank about six feet and lay upon the bottom of the channel. Her work was done.

"It is to be presumed that Commander Godsal was killed by the shell which struck the conning tower. Lieut. Crutchley, searching the ship before he left her, failed to find his body or that of Sub-Lieut. Maclachan in that wilderness of splintered wood and shattered steel. In the previous attempt to block the port Commander Godsal commanded the Brilliant and together with the officers of that ship and of the Sirius had volunteered at once for the further operation.

"Engineer Lieutenant Commander Bury also was severely wounded.

"Most of the casualties were incurred while the ship was being abandoned. The men behaved with just that cheery discipline and courage which distinguished them in the Zeebrugge raid. Petty Officer Reed found Lieut. Alleyne in the conning tower still unconscious and carried him aft under a storm of fire from machine guns. Lieut. Alleyne was badly hit before he could be got over the side and fell into the water. Here he managed to catch hold of a boat and a motor launch under Lieut. Bourke succeeded in rescuing him and two other wounded men.

CREW TAKEN OFF

"The remainder of the crew was taken off by a motor launch under Lieut. Geoffrey H. Drummond, under a fierce fire. When finally he reached the Warwick the launch was practically in sinking condition; her bows were shot to pieces. Lieut. Drummond himself was seriously wounded. His second in command, Lieut. Gordon Ross, also one hand were killed.

"All was according to programme. Recall rockets for the small craft were fired from the flagship at 2:20 a.m. Great red rockets whizzed up, to lose themselves in the fog. They could not have been visible half a mile away, but the work was done and one by one the launches and motorboats commenced to appear from the fog and stopped their engines alongside. The destroyers exchanged news with them. There were wounded men to be transferred and dead men to be reported. But no one had seen a single enemy craft. Nine German destroyers which were out, free to fight, had chosen the discreeter part. The casualties, as at present reported, stand at two officers and six men killed; two officers and ten men, all of the Vindictive, missing, and believed killed, and five officers and eight men wounded.

"It is not claimed by the officers who carried out the operations that Ostend Harbor is completely blocked. But its purpose to embarrass the enemy and make the harbor impracticable to any but small craft, and for dredging operations difficult, has been fully accomplished. The position of the Vindictive is with stem on ot the eastern pier and not her stern, as shown in certain published illustrations."

German Ultimatum Demands Moscow, Financial Concessions and Disarming.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 14.—Count Mirbach, the new German Ambassador to Russia, has served upon the Soviet government an ultimatum, which, literally complied with, would make a German colony of the once proud Russian empire. This information was conveyed to the State Department through official channels. It is based on Swedish press reports, which heretofore have usually proved to be fairly accurate. It was made clear that no confirmation of the reported ultimatum has yet been received from other sources.

LONDON, May 14.—The meeting of Emperor Charles and Emperor William at German Great Headquarters has aroused keen speculation which the official account of the conference has done little to satisfy.

There is an inclination, however, to take it for granted that the meeting resulted in giving Germany a firmer grip on Austria-Hungary and the dual monarchy's internal and external policies; in fact, that from now on Austria-Hungary will be little more than a German colony.

Emperor Charles is pictured as doing penance for his peace letters to France and as promising not to Germans Expected to Attack Near Amiens with Bulk of Forces.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Monday, May 13.—The Germans are preparing most methodically for resumption of their offensive. Signs seem to show that they will attack between La Bassee and the front south of Amiens, but it also is probable they will execute secondary operations simultaneously in Flanders, between Montdidier and Noyon and possibly on other parts of the front, in the hope of attracting the Allied reserves away from the center.

It is regarded as possible that these lesser assaults will be delivered before the principal attack. Whenever the Germans decide to engage in battle, however, they will find facing them French, British and American troops ready to meet the shock, in whichever strength it may be delivered.

GERMANY TO STAKE ALL ON SUPERIOR NUMBERS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 14.—Hindenburg, forced to scrap his original battle plans and reorganize things, has called to his side Mackensen with his Rumanian army, several divisions of reserves, and even has brought strong pressure to bear for using Austrian troops in the drive. He is concentrating the energy of the German nation, of brain, muscle and material, for a victory. He is staking all his resources for a decision, be it world domination or ruin.

In counter-attacks to prevent the Allies from outflanking them on Mont Kemmel on the sector south of Ypres, the Germans today retook Hill 44 from the French. Petain's men had captured the hill from the enemy only two days before.

Near Morlancourt, on the Bray-Corbie road before Amiens, the Germans launched a blow at the British line, over a one-mile front. They were completely driven out by the Australians in a counter-attack.

Austrian troops attacked the newly won Italian position on Monte Corno a second time but were driven back. Along the mountain front the artillery duels are continuing.

A few weeks hence we shall know whether peace will come this year or whether the war will stretch out for many years. Superoptimists already pretend to see signs of the collapse of the enemy, militarily, economically and financially, but those best informed on the general conditions within the German empire look for a long, desperate struggle.

Mutiny.

SAILORS SEIZE AUSTRIAN CRUISERS; FLY RED FLAG.

Officers Secured and Men Operate Fleet Till Demands are Granted.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 14.—The Times' correspondent at Italian headquarters, writing Saturday, says:

"News has been trickling through to Italy for some time about a great mutiny in the Austrian fleet early in February. It is now possible to give a fairly accurate idea of what happened.

"The mutiny began at Pola, but, as it broke out almost simultaneously at Cattaro, it looks as if there was collusion between the two ports.

"It was among the arsenal workmen that the uprising began at Pola. They demanded a cessation of the various disciplinary measures and punishments inflicted both aboard ship and ashore. The movement soon spread to ships in the harbor. Crews left their posts and thronged the decks, shouting, hurrahing and acting as they pleased. Officers were made powerless, but there seems to have been no fighting between them and the men.

"Naval officers parleyed with the men for a week and finally all the sailors' and workmen's demands were granted.

HOIST RED FLAG.

"At Cattaro the mutiny took a more serious turn. Six cruisers and several destroyers hoisted the red flag. The German and Magyar elements on some of the ships held aloof and there were encounters between them and some of the mutineers. The guns of one ship were turned on another and some of the mutineers were killed. After three days the mutineers got the upper hand and became masters of the port. The officers were seized. The admiral commanding was taken from his flagship by the sailors and confined in a vessel in the harbor, where he received, apparently, very gentle treatment.

"The mutineers gave all orders afloat and ashore. Those were printed and signed 'The committee of crews.' The wireless apparatus was seized and the sailors thus communicated their demands to Vienna. Prominent among these demands was one for an immediate conclusion of peace. Alarm was caused by these measures and placating but noncommittal replies were sent.

"After many and prolonged council meetings it was decided to dispatch to Cattaro a division of the fleet under a German-Austrian admiral, upon which it was thought reliance might be placed.

"When this appeared before Cattaro, the position was critical, as murmuring had become general also in the new division. The situation was saved by the Teutonic element in one of the revolting cruisers getting free and hauling down the red flag.

"Negotiations were opened on an equal footing between the admiral and the mutineers and finally these latter consented to surrender themselves upon receiving written guarantees that no action would be taken against any and that a number of grievances would be settled. The Cattaro fleet then returned under the Austrian flag after being eight days in open revolt.

"As a consequence of the mutiny, Emperor Charles cashiered a number of high officers on the ground that their slackness had permitted the outbreak. About thirty officers are believed to have been retired. The fleet has been put under the command of a notoriously severe and much disliked admiral.

"Efforts were made to revoke the amnesty with the mutineers, and they have been heavily punished for supposedly subsequent offenses, but nothing has been done publicly. As most of the Austrian sailors belong to coerced races there is no doubt that ferment continues in the fleet equal to that in the army."

TIMES' ADVERTISING FIGURES AT TOP AS USUAL.

The merchants of Los Angeles and the classified advertisers continue to pin their faith and stick close to the policy of inserting the most of their advertising (in many instances inserting it exclusively) in The Times.

On May 12 the local newspapers printed 19,349 inches of advertising. Of this big volume of business 9586 inches were inserted in The Times.

Tabulated, the record for advertising in each paper on May 12, 1918, was as follows:

The Times	9,586 inches
Second newspaper	6,121 "
Third newspaper	3,642 "

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

And also, as usual, The Times tops the list in the universally popular "want ads," printing 832 inches more of these rapid-fire business bringers than the other newspapers combined, to wit:

The Times	3,227 inches
Second newspaper	1,786 "
Third newspaper	629 "

Advertising in The Times is not a speculation. It increases business, makes trades, keeps the wheels moving and reduces selling costs.

KAISER READY TO STAKE ALL.

America is the salvation of the grand alliance. Although the Germans are preparing another powerful drive against the British, their calculations go much further and include the Americans.

PLAN BIG BLOW.

I believe that Germany will hit harder and longer this time than she did at the beginning of the campaign. Her first drive was a big gamble. Her second effort will have less of the element of chance in it and will depend more upon superior weight. Ludendorff will hit differently in May than he did in March. His strategy now will be different from what it was two months ago when the weather was always likely to prove his enemy. In March and April he hit wildly because he figured in a lucky knockout blow. In May and June he will slug continuously in the hope of weakening the Allied defense.

Not alone Britain, but France and Italy also, will feel the force of the enemy's blows. Anything which gives the impression that America is not a tremendous factor in the war at this very moment is extremely damaging to the alliance. Great as America will be six months hence, her strength is needed now.

Although the British and French armies view the coming onslaught with confidence, it would be wrong to underestimate the tremendous blows which they must meet within the next few weeks. The man-power problem is the vital question today. No one can say what the next weeks will bring forth.

CONTINUOUS THUNDER.

The guns thunder continuously from the sea to the Alps with the sectors around Arras, Albert and Amiens especially lively, but Ludendorff is still waiting. A possible explanation is that he is holding back until the Austrians launch their attack. Another, is that he hopes to attack in clear weather.

The American troops will have their chance. Foch and Petain only wish that there were more of them. The next phase of the 1918 campaign will prove to be the real test and not until after it will there be any thought of peace among the Entente nations.

Speaking for the government, Austen Chamberlain voiced today the feeling of the British when he said that the Cabinet was not indifferent to peace, but that it considered it idle to discuss it until after the next test.

America will play a part in that next test and even a greater part thereafter, should the enemy achieve fresh successes in the coming weeks.

An extremely interesting situation is developing in which the Morning Post is the central figure. J. L. Garvin's harsh attack on that newspaper and its military critic, Lieut.-Col. Repington, in Sunday's issue of the Observer, of which Waldorf Astor is the proprietor, seems to have been the opening shot in a lively skirmish.

The Morning Post evidently intends to stick to its guns and fight until it wins or falls a victim to the censor.

The affair is of more than ordinary interest because the Morning Post represents a small, though powerful group in the country. I understand that Col. Repington is now very much in disfavor with the government. Garvin's attack rallied considerable support for the Post, including several Liberal organs.

This sentence is from today's Post:

"It may not be untimely to remind the public that we have fought throughout the war for certain principles, chief of them being expert direct military direction, that is to say, a free hand for the soldier and sailor."

It furnishes the Evening Standard with a topic for a long editorial upholding the politician. The article says that the only alternative to supreme civilian control is a military dictatorship, "dominating every department of the national life."

NO MILITARY GENIUS.

In the opinion of the Standard, the country is not ready for this and it has no military genius to fill the place. It adds:

"We may take it then, that the civilian statesman must be the final decision. His business is, of course, to surround himself with the best professional advisers, to invite their best judgment, to be guided by them in all matters in which they are competent to advise, and when operations are decided upon, to leave the execution entirely in the hands of an expert.

"The war Cabinet, of course, isn't above criticism. But the constitution provides a means for criticism of a perfectly effective kind and a means for removing a ministry which has lost the confidence of the nation.

"Asquith's ministry lost that confidence and disappeared. But it is perfectly intolerable touchiness that distinguished officers should be exploited by prejudiced people to gain political ends.

"The war can only be won by good teamwork on the part of soldiers and politicians, acting not with antagonism but with loyal co-operation."

WARRING FACTIONS.

Behind this controversy stand two warring political factions, both of which are anxious to see the victorious ending of the war, but differing widely in their means of attaining it.

Unfortunately the Parliament debate ending in Lloyd George's victory didn't settle the question. It merely postponed it. I understand that Gen. Maurice will soon make public his defense, or rather, amplify his letter.

That the ministerial press is not satisfied with Lloyd George's victory is proved by their constant recurrence to the Maurice incident. Although Asquith proved a heavy liability for Gen. Maurice, the ministerial papers are not at all sure that he is politically dead, as they have called him. In fact, they treat him much less like a small boy does a firecracker which sizzles and then dies, ominously quiet.

I return to this subject because political developments affect the course of the war almost as much as the operations on the battlefield. During the adjournment of Parliament it is hoped that some political compromise will be reached.

To the Public.

"I just want to say that we keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand all the time, and find it excellent for bowel trouble," writes Mrs. H. P. Cook, Anderson, Ind.—[Advertisement.

ARMY PRAISES LLOYD GEORGE.

Officers Condemn Veiled Attack on Government.

Snarling at Premier Arouses Anger of Fighting Men.

Maurice's Action is Shock to Former Friends.

BY CASPAR WHITNEY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, May 13. — Traveling through the Amiens region recently I found the British officers outspoken in their condemnation of the context and spirit of Gen. Maurice's published letter. They were distressed by the exhibition of party policies in the House of Commons and they hotly resented the implication that there was any feeling among the line officers at the front other than one of unreserved welcome for the French Poilus. No one admires them more than the British, who have fought with them and whose confidence in Gen. Foch is deep and widespread.

Everywhere there is severe criticism of the unpatriotic impulse behind the snarling and snapping at Lloyd George and of the repeated veiled attacks on the government by the pacifists and weak-spirited.

ARMY'S SENTIMENTS.

One officer voiced his sentiments in the following words: "With Boches spilling their blood by the bucket, to get across that line, to our throats, how in God's name can any Englishman talk peace or potshot at the men who are keeping us going?"

While riding toward Poix, two officers were discussing the Allied position and the German attack. One of them, a reticent colonel, suddenly exclaimed with obvious emotion:

"Why don't our men at home stop baiting Lloyd George, the man who first put us going straight in this war? Why don't they stop washing their dirty political linen in public at such a time as this? The efforts of Maurice and others to salve the sores of blundering generals through seeking to discredit the government is bad enough at any time, but at this time it is scandalous and full of danger.

MUD SLINGING.

"We at the front are fed up with the mud flinging at home by disgruntled, envious officials. The ever-recurring debates in Parliament are reaching our men over here who are beginning to wonder if any of their leaders are fit for their jobs.

"Hearing first this and then that knocking, and reading a lot of overdrawn stories of the cost, are tending to make them believe that the officers of the staff are a lot of blighters.

"It is having a bad effect on the officers and Tommies. It is likely to destroy the faith in the leaders here just as it has among the home people, just at the time when they need to hold fast to it. By the Lord Harry, I wish they would leave Lloyd George alone to get along with the war. He has been the one man we soldiers over here feel we have at home to see that the only fight England has now is against the Germans."

VEXING FRENCH.

The frequent squabbling in London is leaving also an unhappy impression on the French, who were shocked at Maurice's action, and they marvel at the miserable differences among the people of her usually serene neighbor in an hour when the lives of both nations are imperilled on the west front. This and other recent spectacles in Parliament indicated to the French, as well as to every other intelligent, sympathetic observer, that England has men in high position who are less concerned with the winning of the war than with gratifying a personal ambition or venting their ... BRITAIN TO DENOUNCE COMMERCIAL TREATY.

FRENCH STAND AGAINST "MOST FAVORED NATIONS" TO BE FOLLOWED.

LONDON, May 14. — Bonar Law, Chancellor of the exchequer, made an important announcement in the House of Commons Monday, the Times says, in reply to a question by Sir Henry Carson he said the British government intended to adopt a policy similar to that of the French government in denouncing all commercial conventions containing a most favored nations clause regarding "most favored nations."

Such a step, the Times says, will leave Great Britain free to alter its tariffs of fiscal policy.

So long as commercial treaties remained in force, the Times says, it was impossible for the United Kingdom to give specially favorable treatment to her dominions or colonies in customs duties on imports, or to differentiate between countries from which are exported goods of the United Kingdom.

These commercial treaties are to be denounced. This decision, it is said, does not mean necessarily that there will be any radical change in the fiscal policy of Great Britain, but it makes such a change possible.

James Gordon Bennett Passes at His French Home.

Last Words in Relation to His Newspaper Interests.

Owner of New York "Herald" Unconscious Two Days.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BEAULIEU (France) May 14. — James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald, died at 9:40 o'clock this morning after having been unconscious for two days. Mr. Bennett's last words before passing into unconsciousness were in relation to his newspaper interests.

Mrs. Bennett was with her husband when he died.

Mr. Bennett was born May 10, 1... in the city of New York.

FRENCH PRESS PRAISES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, May 14. — The French government, through Armand Berard, Prefect of Alpes-Maritimes, delivered its condolences to Mrs. Bennett. The Paris evening papers comment warmly in their editorial notices on Mr. Bennett's great friendship for France, his understanding of French qualities, his advocacy for French culture and his effective service to the French people before and during the war in making known in America the French aims and policies.

"He is a great friend we lose," says the Intransigeant.

"What a friend of France!" says Homme.

The Temps and Liberte recall briefly Mr. Bennett's brilliant journalistic successes.

Dispatches from France early this week reported Mr. Bennett so seriously ill that his condition was given cause for anxiety. He had been for some months at his villa at Beaulieu, in the Riviera, after an illness and advices from Nice at this time announced that he had had a relapse.

Several thousand miles away from the main newspaper office, James Gordon Bennett directed in minute detail the affairs of the New York Herald and maintained for himself one of the most commanding positions in American journalism. For more than a quarter of a century he lived in Paris and worked simultaneously there and in New York. Never before him or since has attempted such long distance editing. Almost every other angle his career in the newspaper world has been unique. Upon the death of his father, who was founder of the Herald, the younger Bennett, then only 26 years, inherited the great newspaper fortune accumulated by any American publisher up to that time. He applied it toward events to startle the public and to redown to the credit of his name. In many instances these events became important in the world's history.

Among the policy he inaugurated as a managing editor in 1870 was to send Henry M. Stanley into the heart of Africa to find Livingstone, such when he sent the Jeannette expedition to discover the North Pole; such when he was the laying of the commercial cable; — all typical instances of enterprise to "make news" rather than its transmission.

In contrast to the personal journalism of the elder Bennett and his type, the younger Bennett was one of the first to sound the important note. He declared that his paper should become a sort of register which no man or party could hold control. From the first he refused to recognize "celebrities" and refused with "workers" on his staff, and it is related that even when he came back from his triumphs abroad, young Bennett rewarded with the mean assignment of covering the Tenderloin police court in New York.

James Gordon Bennett was born May 10, 1841, in the city of New York.

PARIS, May 14. — The French press, through Armand Bertholet, Prefect of Alpes-Maritimes, has sent its condolences to Mrs. Bennett. The Paris evening papers speak warmly in their editorial notices of Mr. Bennett's great services to France, his understanding of French qualities, his admiration for French culture and his valuable service to the French people during the war in which, known in America the journals and policies.

"He was a great friend we lose," says Clemenceau.

"He was a friend of France!" says Pichon.

Temps and Liberte recall Mr. Bennett's brilliant journalistic successes.

Advices from France early this morning reported Mr. Bennett so seriously ill that his condition was given cause for anxiety. He had been for some months at his villa at Beaulieu, in the Riviera, after an illness that advices from Nice at this time announced that he had had a relapse.

Several thousand miles away from the newspaper office, James Gordon Bennett directed in minute detail the affairs of the New York Herald and maintained for himself one of the most commanding positions in American journalism. For more than a quarter of a century he lived in Paris and worked simultaneously there and in New York. Even before him or since has attempted long distance editing. Almost every other angle his career in the newspaper world has taken. Upon the death of his father he was founder of the Herald, the younger Bennett, then only 20 years, inherited the newspaper fortune accumulated by the American publisher up to that time. He applied it toward plans to startle the public and known to the credit of his judgment. In many instances these plans became important features in the world's history.

It was the policy he inaugurated as managing editor in 1870 that sent Henry M. Stanley into the heart of Africa to find Livingstone when he sent the ill-fated expedition to discover the North Pole; such when he began the laying of the commercial cable ——— all typical instances of enterprise to "make news" and its transmission.

Contrast to the personal journalism of the elder Bennett and his son, the younger Bennett was often the first to sound the "impossible" notes. He declared that his paper should become a sort of republic of which no man or party should have control. From the first refused to recognize "celebrities" and associated with "workers" on his paper. It is related that even when he came back from his triumphs as a young Bennett rewarded the mean assignment of reporting the Tenderloin police court in New York.

When Mr. Bennett moved to Paris in 1887 he started the Paris edition of the New York Herald and again took a unique position, as this is still the only American daily newspaper published in Europe. During this residence abroad, broken only by the unexpected arrival of the Bennett yacht in New York Harbor once every two or three years for a short stop, the editors in immediate control of the New York Herald kept a chair at their conference table always vacant for the absent editor, one of his own ideas to keep his men imbued with the spirit that he was "boss," although several thousand miles away.

The Herald, marked minutely with the names of the men who had written certain articles or news stories, was forwarded to him in Paris daily. He kept in touch with every detail of personnel and policy. Daily, or oftener, the cable from Paris, or wherever he might be sojourning in his yacht, brought the editor-in-chief's executive orders, for promotion or discharge, for compliment or reprimand, or sketch of general policies.

His whims, amounting, his critics said, to eccentricities, were one of the most interesting angles of his personality. It is related that he dismissed a musical critic simply because "he was such a funny looking man," and put the financial editor in his place; and that a "copy" boy who ran into the pit of Mr. Bennett's stomach in the Herald office received several dollars reward for his unusual haste. These and many instances like them were traditions of Herald employees.

He laughed at conventions, and invariably printed in the Herald the worst things his enemies said about him. When Jay Gould gave to the press a letter of 10,000 words attacking Bennett's personal life, the editor of the Herald turned about and published it in full with the curt remark that Mr. Gould was "a gentleman." When John Kelley, leader of Tammany Hall, publicly assailed Mr. Bennett's character, he retorted: "The proprietor of the Herald lost his reputation long before Mr. Kelley was ever heard of." He swung his newspaper from one side to another in public questions with startling abruptness.

He was assailed for many years for the "personal" advertisements which were once an unrestrained feature of his paper. In 1907 he bowed to the law with payment of a fine of $25,000, when the court characterized the Herald personals as "a public stench."

In his innumerable promotions, all bearing upon the promotion of his newspaper, Mr. Bennett figured as a notable patron of sport. He introduced polo into America; revived coaching in France, organized international automobile and aeronautical races, and built and sailed numerous yachts.

HILARIOUS PARTY IS ARRESTED AT VENICE.

Three youths and their girl companions were arrested early today and held by the Venice police for the juvenile authorities after they are said to have become hilarious from indulgence in liquor.

The six arrested by Detective Humphries were: George Tahn, 18 years old, No. 1412 Gerrard avenue; Harry Gless, 19 years old, No. 167 South Rowan avenue; Edgar Printz, 19 years old, No. 4012 East First street; Caricott Mathews, 17 years old, No. 2672 West Pico street; Nina Litchty, 14 years old, and her sister, Helen Litchty, 16 years old, of No. 1318 South Hobart boulevard.

COLLIER CYCLOPS NOT YET RECORDED "LOST."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 14. — Although two months have passed since the naval collier Cyclops disappeared, Secretary Daniels said today the Navy Department still holds hopes of solving the mystery, and has not yet officially recorded the vessel as "lost."

Systematic questioning of fishermen and residents of islands along the route the collier would have followed from the West Indies to an Atlantic port is continuing.

AMERICANS IN FIERCE FIGHT.

the Germans penetrated the British positions at one place. Field Marshal Haig reports tonight that at all other points on this line the Germans were repulsed with heavy loss. Australians later recaptured the lost positions.

The statement says:

"This morning, after heavy artillery preparation, the enemy attacked on a front of nearly a mile southwest of Morlancourt and succeeded at one point in entering our positions. At all other points the attack was repulsed with heavy loss to him and in this locality an immediate counter-attack by Australian troops drove out the enemy and completely re-established our line.

"We captured over fifty prisoners and our casualties were light.

"Local fighting occurred all last night north of Kemmel, where the enemy attacked in the direction of Kleine Vierstraat and was repulsed by the French troops."

GERMAN STATEMENTS.

BERLIN (via London) May 14.—"Strong British attacks during the evening were delivered against our positions north and south of Givenchy," says the official communication from general headquarters today. "They were repulsed with heavy losses."

"On the fighting fronts there were increased firing activity during the early morning hours, which died down in the course of the afternoon. During the evening, it revived several times. Reconnoitering activity remained lively."

SAN FRANCISCO PUTS QUIETUS ON GERMAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14. — Teaching of the German language in the elementary schools of San Francisco will be discontinued after the end of the present term, according to a resolution adopted unanimously by the Board of Education.

BOTH BRITISH AND FRENCH IN SUCCESS OVER GERMANS.

WHILE the Germans continue to reconstitute with fresh elements their units shattered by the Allies during the recent big offensive, says the Associated Press, they are keeping up intense bombardments against the British and French positions on various sectors in Flanders and Picardy. They also have become embroiled with the French in heavy artillery duels in Champagne and in the Vosges Mountains.

Nowhere on any part of the line from the North Sea to the Swiss frontier has there been an infantry engagement of great importance. Near Morlancourt, which lies to the south of Albert, the Germans delivered an attack against the British on a front of nearly a mile, and at one point penetrated a British position. The Australians, in a counter-blow, almost immediately recaptured the ground, and the enemy suffered heavy losses and was repulsed on the other parts of the front.

ATTACK NORTH OF KEMMEL REPULSED.

A similar operation was attempted against the French on Hill 44, the scene of many previous bloody encounters in the Kemmel sector. Unofficial reports say the enemy gained a foothold on the rugged slopes, but that the French were pressing him hard, while Field Marshal Haig in his latest communication asserts that an attack north of Kemmel (which might include Hill 44) was repulsed.

North of Robecq, in Flanders, the British took the initiative into their own hands and in an attack inflicted casualties on the enemy and captured prisoners. In the Amiens sector the French carried out a similar maneuver with like results.

ALLIES REALIZE QUIET IS NOT FOR LONG.

Although the Germans everywhere are remaining in comparative quiet, except for their artillery work, it is realized behind the Allied lines that this state of affairs will not last long, for the enemy is known to be preparing methodically for a resumption of hostilities. The strengthening of the line is being made both in man and gun power, and, in reconstituting regiments that were shot to pieces by the Allied guns during the big drive, the Germans are bringing up men who have had no part in the great struggle.

When the blow is to be delivered apparently is beyond the realm even of surmise, but it is highly probable that it will not come until the enemy is fully prepared in every way to give mighty battle to gain his objective — the separating of the British and French armies and the opening of a fairway to the channel ports.

FIGHTING CONTINUES AROUND MONTE CORNO.

In the Italian theater considerable fighting continues around Monte Corno, which commands the approach to the valley leading from Trent to Rovereto. Here the Austrians have renewed their attacks to regain the ground captured by Gen. Diaz's forces last week, but the Italians have successfully warded off every blow. Attempts by the invaders to reach Italian positions on several other sectors of the front also met with repulse.

ITALIANS REPULSE FOE AFTER BLOODY STRUGGLE.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Monday, May 13.—Italian troops repulsed with heavy loss a desperate enemy attempt last night to redeem the loss of Monte Corno. It is believed that this was only the first of a series of efforts to regain the lost ground owing to the value of the height which commands the approaches to the valley leading from Trent to Rovereto.

The fight last night was in the darkness and was a bloody hand-to-hand struggle over the rocky slopes of the mountain. The Italian positions, however, were maintained intact.

Thus far the fighting around Monte Corno has been of local character and not a part of any general offensive, although the outposts show increasing activity.

ROME OFFICIAL.

ROME, May 14.—The War Office announcement today reads:

"Hostile attempts to renew the attacks on Monte Corno and to approach our lines at Dosso Cassina and in the Balcino and Ornic valleys completely failed. Italian and British patrols raided the village of Pedescala and trenches in front of Ave, inflicting losses on the enemy.

"There were more lively artillery duels in the Tonale region, in the Lagarina Valley, Monte Asolone and north of Monte Collo.

"Eleven hostile airplanes were brought down. British aviators successfully bombed enemy hutments near Asiago."

EMPERORS' CONFERENCE.

AMSTERDAM, May 14.—Austrian newspapers publish a statement to the effect that the conference between Emperor William and Emperor Charles at Great Headquarters last Sunday was intended to strengthen the old alliance, which was concluded as a defensive measure against Russia and to which added weight was given by the developments of the war.

"We were attacked and were obliged to defend ourselves against a world of enemies," says the statement. "Therefore we must adhere to the defensive alliance and extend and deepen it. This defensive alliance fits well into the alliance of peoples, which, as alleged, is the aim of the Entente. The alliance of peoples is meant to be protection against future wars. The dual alliance has no aim in view other than protection against future wars."

The statement concludes: "It is obvious that when the renewal of the alliance is being discussed a series of questions of political, military and economic nature, which are closely connected therewith, also must be discussed."

DELETING PROCLAMATION BY PRESIDENT IS RESENTED IN POUGHKEEPSIE.

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) May 14.—Grand Army veterans, headed by Maj. Lewis C. Dietz, organizer of the local Loyal Service League; Capt. Lewis C. Bevier and Judge John G. Harris of New Hamburg, this morning made the rounds of all news stands, bought up every available copy of the New York American, carted them to the corner of Main and Market streets, in front of the Courthouse and there, before a crowd of nearly 1000, tore them to bits and burned them.

Maj. Dietz explained the action by producing a copy of this morning's New York Tribune showing that the "American" had so edited President Wilson's Memorial Day proclamation that reference to peace was left in, but all allusions to prayers for victory were deleted. The police took no action to curb the veterans or to disperse the throng assembled at the most prominent corner in the city.

While they were tearing the papers the veterans interspersed the work with fiery remarks.

"DASTARDLY ACT."

"It is a dastardly, cowardly act," said Maj. Dietz, "and one that should receive the condemnation of every true American. It is a plain exposure of the man who is attempting to fool the people of this country by publishing articles that are perfectly agreeable to the Kaiser's government and traitorous pro-Germans that are in this country.

"It is just such articles as this as will arouse the veterans of '61 to get out and fight for the principles for which they were willing to sacrifice their lives, and stand just as strong today as they did when they fought on the battlefields of the South."

Judge Harris of New Hamburg, intensely patriotic, was not with the group when they first started out on their mission, but soon heard of it and hastened to join them, going to uptown news stands, and contributing the necessary amount to purchase every New York American offered for sale.

TO BAR PAPER.

"I haven't much money," shouted Judge Harris, "but what I lack I can borrow, and we will see that there is not one of the scurrilous papers allowed to be sold in this city. Further than that, we will start a movement to bar the paper from the streets of any village in Duchess county."

Questioned as to what action would be taken by the G.A.R. on the matter, Maj. Dietz stated that there would be a meeting Wednesday night, at which time it is believed resolutions will be offered to forbid the circulation of any Hearst publication in Duchess county.

Col. Horatio E. Murray, commander of Hamilton Sleight Post No. 20, G.A.R., tonight admitted that the question would come up at a meeting of the post to be held here Wednesday night. The question is to be discussed by the War Committee, of which he is chairman.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 14.—Little by little for those who possess the glad way of always hoping for the best, come evidences that sometime, before long maybe, spring will arrive in Chicago. Today was better than yesterday, so why not assume that tomorrow will be better than today? Also, there was the same bountiful supply of sunshine that the wealthy go elsewhere to seek and the gentle breeze had shifted to the west.

PRESIDENT'S HAND IS FREED OF BANDAGES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 14.—President Wilson removed the bandages which have encased his left hand since he burned it four weeks ago by taking hold of an exhaust pipe in the British tank that visited the White House. The hand has healed, but the burns have left ugly scars which cover the entire palm.

The President, compelled to give up golf for two weeks, recently has been playing a one-handed game, at which he has become quite proficient.

New York May be Beer-rationed.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Intimation that this city may be put on a "beer ration" is contained in notices posted in saloons by the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association. The announcements say that the government requires a 20 per cent. reduction in beer production, and that unless saloon owners adopt measures to reduce consumption, brewers will be forced to limit their supplies.

CREEL AGAIN UP FOR NEW YORK REMARKS.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Representative Gillett of Massachusetts, acting Republican leader, directed the attention of the House today to a published account of a speech delivered in New York last night by George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information, quoting Mr. Creel as saying in reply to a question from the audience as to whether all members of Congress have loyal hearts:

"I do not like slumming, so I will not explore into the hearts of Congress."

"What do you think of a public official who would make a statement of that kind?" asked Mr. Gillett, addressing Democratic Leader Kitchin.

"I would rather see it ruled by Mr. Creel or some one else before I accept it as the truth," Mr. Kitchin replied, "but if Mr. Creel made such a statement he is not worthy of the respect of any member of the House or any patriotic citizen of the United States."

"When Mother Works Magic For Bobs"

EVERY morning Mother works it, out in our sunshiny kitchen, after Father has waved goodbye, and I sit and watch.

Bobs, he watches, too—with big, wide open eyes and pink cheeks—we wheel him in and he plays with his toes—'cause Bobs is my baby, Mother says—and the magic is all for him.

IT comes out of a big white can with writing on it, with a tight lid Mother pries off. It's a fluffy, good-tasting powder—and sometimes I can lick the spoon, when I'm very good.

So many teaspoonfuls Mother counts out ever so carefully, and then she just adds some fresh water and boils it a minute, pops it into Bob's bottles—and the magic is done. If there's a wee bit left over I drink it—and my, it's good!

Big brother and I, we get meat and potatoes, and wash and apple sauce, and milk, and rice pudding, and when I ask Mother why Bobs can't have all these things too, she laughs and pinches my cheek or says:

"Honeybunch, Bobs is getting fresh, clean milk, cereal like you have for breakfast, sugar and some other things—all in that fluffy powder—just fixed right for his many to Eke!"

And if that isn't magic, I don't know what is!

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels.

The indictment returned today will be substituted for that returned last October. The government sought the new indictment because of the recent acquittal of the editors of the Philadelphia Tageblatt, who were indicted on similar evidence.

EDWARDSVILLE (Ill.) May 14.—Owing to difficulty in selecting a jury to try the eleven men charged with the murder following the lynching last month of Robert Paul Prager, deputy sheriffs were sent throughout the county tonight to pick up eligible talesmen from the fields and factories.

So far sixty-eight veniremen have been exempted and not one has been agreed upon by the State and defense. Three men have been tentatively accepted by the State and they are locked up.

The strike was authorized at a secret meeting of the teamsters' joint council last night. No notice was served on employers.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Eighteen hundred carrier pigeons flew from Sterling, Ill., to Chicago, a distance of more than 100 miles by rail, in a little over two hours today in the first of a series of tests for the government, according to Oscar J. Light, race secretary of the Chicago Concourse Association. This time, Light declared, was exceptionally good.

The birds were released at Sterling at 6:30, and all had arrived at 8:30. Additional flights each Sunday will be made if weather conditions permit, Light said.

Among them is Charles Mullen, former first baseman for the Chicago White Sox and manager of the Camp Lewis baseball team. Mullen is a private in the Ambulance Company of the Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth Regiment.

"When Mother Works Magic For Bobs"

EVERY morning Mother works it, out in our sunshiny kitchen, after Father has waved goodbye, and I sit and watch.

Bobs, he watches, too—with big, wide open eyes and pink cheeks—we wheel him in and he plays with his toes—'cause Bobs is my baby, Mother says—and the magic is all for him.

IT comes out of a big white can with writing on it, with a tight lid Mother pries off. It's a fluffy, good-tasting powder—and sometimes I can lick the spoon, when I'm very good.

So many teaspoonfuls Mother counts out ever so carefully, and then she just adds some fresh water and boils it a minute, pops it into Bob's bottles—and the magic is done. If there's a wee bit left over I drink it—and my, it's good!

Big brother and I, we get meat and potatoes, and toast and apple sauce, and milk, and rice pudding, and when I ask Mother why Bobs can't have all these things too, she laughs and pinches my cheek or says:

"Honeybunch, Bobs is getting fresh, clean milk, exactly like you have for breakfast, sugar and some other things—all in that fluffy powder—just fixed right for his tummy to like!"

And if that isn't magic, I don't know what is!

Movement to Extend Over Five-Day Periods.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Twenty-four States and the District of Columbia were called upon tonight by Provost-Marshal-General Crowder to furnish for the National Army 51,000 more men qualified for general military service.

Movement of drafted men to the camps under this call is to extend over two periods, from May 20 to 24 and from May 29 to June 2. These dates were fixed because during the five days beginning May 25 approximately 223,000 men called for recently will be moving to the camps.

Tonight's call marks further development of the government's plans for hastening men to France and rushing them as rapidly as they vacate the training centers. In all, 254,000 draftees will be journeying from their homes to military camps between May 2 and June 2. Including numerous calls for technical and specially qualified men, the total number summoned during May is

CALL DRAFTED ARMY TO CAMP.

Forty-one Thousand Men Receive Summons.

Twenty-four States Asked to Send Quota.

Movement to Extend Over Five-Day Periods.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Twenty-four States and the District of Columbia were called upon tonight by Provost-Marshal-General Crowder to furnish for the National Army 51,600 men qualified for general military service.

The movement of drafted men to the camps under this call is to extend over two periods, from May 20 to 28, and from May 29 to June 2. Quotas were fixed because during the five days beginning May 25 approximately 223,000 men called previously will be moving to the camps.

Tonight's call marks further development of the government's plans for sending men to France and receiving them as rapidly as they vacate the training centers. In all, 641,000 draftees will be journeying from their homes to military camps between May 2 and June 2. Including numerous calls for technical and specially qualified men, the total to be summoned during May is something like 366,600, nearly half of the 800,000 expected to be called this year.

BASED ON QUOTAS.

While officials did not explain why only half the States were asked to furnish men at this time, it is understood the sections to be drawn upon were arrived at through consideration of the proportion of quotas already called in some cases and of the location of vacated training camps.

The camps selected for the registrants affected by tonight's order are not all National Army camps, showing that men are to be sent wherever room may be found for them. In several instances men from certain States are ordered to go to camps to which men from their States are not usually assigned.

ASSIGNMENTS.

The Western States drawn upon and camps assigned them are as follows:

For the movement from May 20 to 24:

California, 1500 to Fort McDowell, Cal.

Colorado, 1500 to Logan, Colo.

District of Columbia, 300 to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Illinois, 5500 to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Oklahoma, 1000 to Jackson Barracks, La.; 1300 to Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Washington, 250 to Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

For the movement from May 29 to June 2:

Illinois, 5500 to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; 4000 to Fort Thomas, Ky.

Kansas, 1000 to Fort Logan, Colo.

New Mexico, 500 to Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Oklahoma, 1000 to Jackson Barracks, La.

Oregon, 1500 to Fort McDowell, Cal.

Texas, 500 to Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Washington, 250 to Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

Wyoming, 500 to Fort Logan, Colo.

STAGE EMPLOYEES IN BUTTE TABOO TEUTONS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BUTTE, May 14.—The local Stage Employees' Union today passed resolutions refusing to work in any theater hereafter that permits subjects of the Central Powers to appear on the bill or in the cast.

Action was precipitated by a company of German midgets, which appeared here recently and openly boasted on the stage that the Kaiser would win the war and that they were proud to be Germans.

ultimatum served upon the Soviet government at Moscow by Count Mirbach.

The Stockholm dispatch follows:

"Count Mirbach, German Ambassador at Moscow, recently transmitted a note to the Russian government formulated as an ultimatum and demanding the immediate enforcing of certain financial measures which would virtually make Russia a German colony.

CHIEF POINTS.

The chief points of the note were the immediate solution of the question regarding the exchange of war prisoners, the complete abandonment of armaments and the dissolution of units of the army recently formed, also the occupation of Moscow and some other large Russian cities."

While vague hints in press dispatches have warranted the inference that the Soviet government is considering the possibility of a forced withdrawal from Moscow, it has not been believed here that Germany was planning an early occupation of the ancient Russian capital.

If the Stockholm report is correct, it is thought to reflect Germany's intention of extending her influence in Russia, a movement which was interrupted by the big military operations in the west, except in the region of the Ukraine and the Black Sea.

CONTROL CAUCASUS.

MOSCOW, Friday, May 10.—Through the capture of Rostov-on-Don the Germans have gained control of the Caucasus, the grain districts in the Donethe basin and the coal, iron and oil fields. Northern Russia now is cut off from the Caucasus, excepting for a single railroad running through Tsaratsin in the southern part of the government of Saratov, which the Germans are now threatening.

Coupled with the fall of Sebastopol and the overthrow of the Ukraine Rada and the establishment in the Ukraine of a bourgeoisie government wholly under German domination, the capture of Rostov-on-Don has created great uneasiness in Moscow and Petrograd. A German advance in Central Russia is generally feared and the removal of the capital to Yekaterinburg, in the Ural Mountains, is being discussed.

Germany's overthrow of the Ukraine government, with which it had made peace, is regarded by North Russia as a step toward its occupation. Within a few weeks the future of Petrograd and Moscow probably will be demonstrated, as it is considered that the Soviet government either must submit to German domination or retreat eastward and prepare for a defense against the invaders.

Effective resistance will be difficult without outside assistance, because of the lack of technical experts and supplies. The bitter feeling against Germany is intensified by the ruthless seizures in Ukraine and a growing disposition to accept Allied aid if the Entente Allies will recognize the Bolshevik government, is evident.

MAIL IS SEIZED.

LONDON, May 14.—The people's commissaries at Irkutsk, Siberia, are seizing all correspondence from Manchuria to Russia and confiscating all letters and telegrams dealing with the political situation in the Far East, says Reuter's correspondent at Harbin, telegraphing under date of May 11.

Railroad traffic in the direction of Chita, in the Trans-Baikal, has been interrupted, the correspondent adds, because of the fighting going on between the forces of Gen. Semenoff, the anti-Bolsheviki leader in Siberia, and Red Guard troops near Karumska (sixty miles east of Chita.)

MUST AID GERMANY.

AMSTERDAM, May 14.—Emperor William has issued a proclamation concerning Lithuania in which he said it is assumed that Lithuania will participate in the war burdens of Germany.

In the proclamation the "independence" of Lithuania, allied with the German Empire, is recognized.

"We assume that the conventions to be concluded," the proclamation says further, "will take the interests of the German Empire into account equally with those of Lithuania and that Lithuania will participate in the war burdens of Germany, which secured her liberation."

Lithuania is one of the former Russian border states which the Germans have attempted to set up as nominally independent countries, under German influence. Germany is making every effort to exploit the states economically, but except in the case of Poland has not attempted to force the former Russian subjects to fight with the German army, as the Emperor's announcement indicates may now be done in Lithuania. The attempt to enroll a Polish army on the same plea that is now made in the case of Lithuania was a failure, and the "Polish legion" was disbanded.

The Vorwaerts of Berlin said recently that strong opposition was developing among the Lithuanians to transforming their country into a German "semi-federal" state. Entire independence is demanded.

The Lithuanians number about 2,000,000 and are found mainly in the former Russian governments of Kovno, Vilna, Grodno and Suwalki.

DISLIKE DRAFT IDEA.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Emperor William's proclamation recognizing the independence of Lithuania allied with the German empire was received today with no enthusiasm by officers at the Lithuanian national council headquarters here.

"The assumption that Lithuania 'will participate in the war burdens in Germany' means a contribution of three things: Money, munitions and men," the officers declared. "The first we have not, as Germany has already impoverished us; the second we have no means of supplying because we lack the first. Therefore, Germany can have reference only to men. Men from a self-declared democracy to fight in the ranks of autocracy? Unthinkable. Lithuania would not consent. Are her citizens to be dragooned into the ranks of the Kaiser? This would be an abridgement of the sovereignty which Germany has already recognized, for Chancellor Hertling's reply stated, 'We hereby recognize Lithuania free and independent.'"

GERMANS SEEK DUTCH TRADE.

Reported Gaining Control of Import Market.

Dealer in Holland Firmly Bound by Contract.

Propaganda Cleverly Mixed with Goods Sold.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROTTERDAM, May 13.—Unless energetic measures are adopted at once, England, on resuming trade with Holland, will find that the cream of the market is in the hands of the Germans and that the Dutch dealer is no longer a free agent, being as firmly tied to the German manufacturer as the British publican is to the brewer.

The number of articles which cannot be exported from England to Holland is legion. The number of articles which the Germans are importing into this country today is almost as large.

While it is true to a great extent that the German steel and iron industries, for instance, have their hands full with home demands, they are managing to send to Holland enough commodities, like machinery, parts, boilers, iron tubes, bicycle parts and agricultural implements, to put most of the dealers in their power and at the same time establish extensive credits.

Germany has torn up local railway lines to meet military needs elsewhere, and apparently has found difficulty in meeting the ordinary requirements in rolling stock. But she is sending rails, railway material and rolling stock to Holland.

In every instance where a German is supplying goods his system of mixing trade with propaganda is cleverly and carefully carried out. He points out that Germany, which, according to England, is short of everything, is giving something in her need in order to make the lot of her neighbors easier, whereas, England, pretending to be fully supplied with everything, deliberately refuses to send anything to the little nations which she proudly declares she protects.

Los Angeles Woman Urges Committee in House to Utilize Water of the Grand Canyon.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Government development of the Grand Canyon to reclaim semiarid lands for agriculture and to furnish power for new industries was urged today before the House Waterways Committee by Mrs. H. W. R. Strong of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Strong asked that the Grand Canyon be exempt from the administration water power bill, which provides for private development of water power. Electrification of the Santa Fe Railroad is one of the possibilities of dam construction, and the harnessing of the water, Mrs. Strong said.

WRIGLEY'S

The use of WRIGLEY'S by the fighting men has created much comment across the water.

Mat Game.

KENNEDY REAL YANKEE TYPE.

Wrestler on Miller's Trail Looks the Part.

Loses but One Match in One Hundred and Fifty.

Ought to Give the Local Man Tough Time.

He looks the part, does Jack Kennedy—the clean-cut, quiet, typical American athlete.

And he says Walter Miller has held the title of world's middleweight champion wrestler long enough. He isn't boasting that he'll wrest it from him tomorrow night in the great match at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, but he intimates that he's going after it harder than he ever tackled anything in his wonderful grappling career.

He is a gentleman and a farmer, this Mr. Kennedy of magnificent muscular development, who has by no means neglected his mental training along with the physical. He and his brother own and operate a large ranch at Hermiston, Or. When Jack tires of cutting alfalfa he goes out and mows down a row or two of mat artists, chucks them into the discard as wrestlers and then returns to the happy farm routine. He is a business man, 27 years of age, and has a wife and little daughter.

Kennedy arrived yesterday morning and took a little exercise at noon in the L.A.A.C. gymnasium, where he attracted much attention. Miller, the champion he challenged, was working out at the same time with some of his best wrestling pupils, so there was good opportunity for comparison of the two. They are different types, but appear very evenly matched. Both are in perfect condition and will do little between now and the big battle. They are the cleanest kind of athletes and admire each other as such. Kennedy has approved George Reiser as referee.

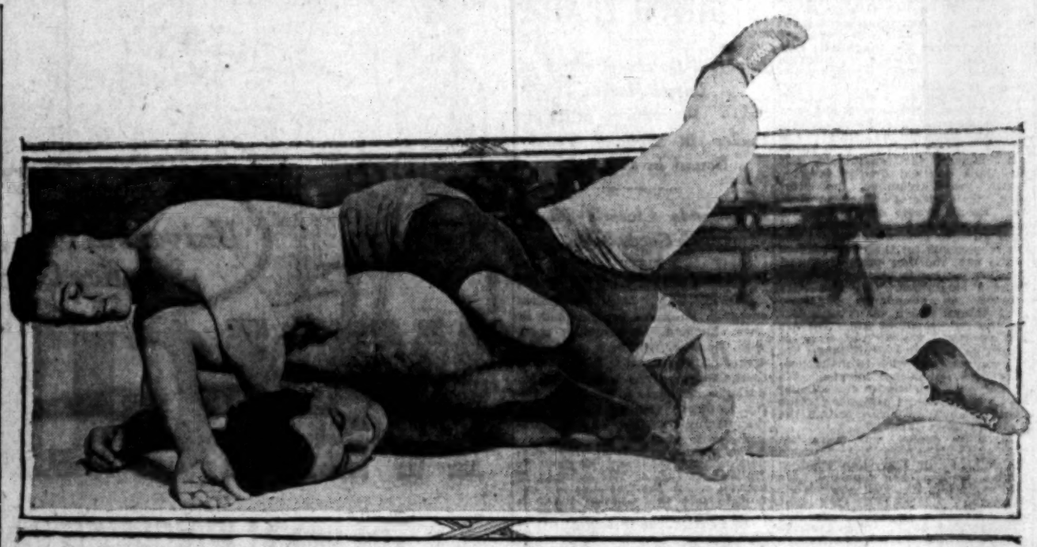
Next to Miller, Kennedy has the most remarkable record of any man in the game. Out of the 150 matches he has figured in since the beginning of his career six years ago he lost but one, and that was the first. He was green and tackled Oscar Hanson, veteran of high standing, in Chicago. Hanson beat him in one minute and forty-eight seconds, but Kennedy didn't desert the mat. He had the satisfaction a few months afterward of defeating Hansen decisively. Then he won the Cook county and Chicago Y.M.C.A. championships and was on the point of capturing the national amateur title when he was barred for participating in an unsanctioned meet. The bar was put up after he had disposed easily of one of two men who stood between him and the goal. Then he turned professional.

Like Miller, Kennedy has not limited his matches to his own division but has derived keen pleasure from contact with the best heavyweights, not one of whom has been able to put a crimp in him. His last match in the north, not many days ago, was at Pendleton with Ray McCarroll, a noted Oregon gladiator who figured on an easy victory. The big fellow, a 175-pounder, put up the fiercest scrimmage he was capable of, but the little Chicagoan vanquished him in forty minutes.

Kennedy says the toughest and swiftest match he ever had was with Fred Gump. It lasted but six minutes. Kennedy won two falls in forty seconds. This was an amateur contest.

When Doc Reiler, weighing 220 pounds, claimed the American heavyweight championship, Kennedy, 155 pounds, won from him in a half-hour handicap battle that went down in history as a wonder for speed and endurance and strength on the part of the middleweight.

At Kellogg, Idaho, John Hiltunen, a 195-pound miner, fairly swept the mat with every scrimmager who came along, regardless of size, until little Kennedy happened around that way and took a chance. The populace viewed him pityingly as a poor, simple boob, and the miners turned out to see him pitched into the next yard like a dishrag. But the pitching wasn't good. Mr. Hiltunen couldn't even take Kennedy off his feet. In one hour and thirty-five minutes the giant's reputation was shattered and his head ached. He was out of business. Kennedy had given him thoroughly scientific treatment.



Miller, the world's middleweight champion, handling a heavyweight.

This remarkable photograph shows him with a body scissors and half-Nelson on A. S. Salisian, a crack heavyweight at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Miller put him down repeatedly and the big grappler couldn't budge him.

FISHING VERY GOOD IN OWENS VALLEY.

Fishing in Owens Valley so far this season is the best in many years, reports Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner Ed H. Ober, who is patrolling the streams in Inyo and Mono counties.

"Everybody who goes out and can fish even a little bit, comes back with the limit in pounds from Owens River," writes Ober. "Several auto parties have been as far up as Benton Crossing, but the best fishing is lower down. Anyone coming up this way from now until the high water, which is due about the middle of next month, will find splendid bait fishing. Young Powers of Bishop caught an eight and one-half-pound Loch Leven trout at the mouth of Convict Creek, Sunday, and another angler caught one of seven and three-fourths pounds opposite the lower power plant in the gorge. Many four and five-pounders have been caught. Few are fishing the smaller side streams; most seem to prefer the Owens River, which is easily accessible by auto and good catches are sure."

Deputy Ober reports that the angling-license law is very well respected in his county, and the sportsmen are all carrying their "permits" in their fishing clothes this season. It's a long, long way to go home after one's license.

George Smith, recently secured from the New York club, pitched great ball and would have scored a shutout but for an error by 6. Magee. The latter, however, drove over both his team's runs by singles. Five fast double plays featured the game. Johnston made four of Brooklyn's six hits, having a perfect batting record for the day. [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, May 14.—After losing the first two games, New York took the final game of the series with Pittsburgh, 3 to 2. It was a hard-fought game. New York bunched three hits off Miller in the second inning, which gave them two runs. In the next inning a double by Kauf, a sacrifice and an error resulted in another score. Pittsburgh gained two runs in the sixth inning and had the bases filled when Hamilton, as a pinch hitter, knocked a roller to Zimmerman, who made a quick pick-up and retired the side. The score:

STRAPHANGERS GET HARD JOLT.

Winning prep athletic contests only to forfeit them the next day seems to have become ultra-fashionable among Los Angeles institutions. Comes now the news that the L. A. High-Poly baseball game of last Monday, won by L. A. High, 9-6, has been forfeited to the Poly Mechanics because of the alleged ineligibility of two of the Straphangers.

It has been stated that both Keller and Hillman, leading lights of the L. A. offensive, should not have been permitted to participate in the contest under prep rulings. Keller, it seems, has been playing high school ball for four and a half years, while Hillman is alleged to be a budding professional.

BATTING RALLY WINS GAME FOR ANGELS.

SACRAMENTO, May 14.—A sharp batting rally in the sixth inning enabled the Los Angeles club to win the opening game of the series from Sacramento, 4 to 1. A home run by Cooper, a double by Ellis and singles by Fournier and Boles accounted for the runs. Two men were down when the rally started.

Fittery was on the mound for the Angels and let the locals down with six scattered hits. His fast breaks were working and Sacramento had difficulty in locating him. Gardner started the game for the Senators, but was excused in the seventh after having been found for four safeties in a row. Hi West, who succeeded him, finished the game in grand style, only the legal number of batters facing him.

The work of Terry at short was easily the feature of the game. Twice the little shortstop brought high ones down that had they gone would have meant runs. He is the classiest infielder to play here this season.

Ellis, of the visitors, was the leading batter, getting three safe clouts out of four times at bat. One of his raps went for two bases. Cooper, in center field for Los Angeles, made a sensational one-hand catch in the sixth of Wills's long drive. Sacramento threatened the count in the first frame when three men were on and one down, but Forsythe hit into a double play. The score:

Sour pickles and then some. Walt McCredie swooped down on Bill Essick yesterday afternoon and tickled him to the tune of 4 to 1. Paradoxical as it may be, Walt dispensed with any whirls in the uncanny and incantation line to accomplish his fell purpose; in fact, he remained aloof from the batting line until the ninth inning, when to show that his presence spells runs, he ambled to the plate and, in the twinkling of a jackrabbit's ear, the Bees swung the winning run over the plate.

Charley Check was on the mound for the Tigers and really pitched better game than the score shows. He got into a jam in the ninth inning when the visitors scored their runs. Hosp jumbled up things by bobbling Penner's grounder and Siglin was safe at first. Penner sent an easy one to Chapelle. Siglin and Ryan singled in succession, filling the bases. Chapelle sent a long sacrifice fly to Eldred, Doubled to right, putting Siglin and Ryan over the rubber and Eldred trying to make third. Eldred threw Hosp to Wisterzil. Three runs, three hits and one error.

$10.00 PER MONTH.

I own about sixty half-acre plots in one of the best developed suburban sections close to Los Angeles. These little half-acre farms sold for as high as $6500 before the war. I am going to sell these for practically what they cost me on terms of $10 per month. I will pay for one com-plete set of abstracts and free rides and luncheons. I will supply those who are interested with a plat and full particulars. Don't overlook this. All these half-acres are priced the same; some are better than others. It is the kind of property you can live on and work in the city. My rea-son for making this a blind ad is that I don't want to be bothered with a lot of agents. If you are interested, I will mail you a plat, price list and complete description. Nobody will call upon you or bother you in any way. You will have to drive out and see the property yourself. SUNDAY-SCHOOL MAY FETE ATTRACTS MANY.

FESTIVAL PRECEDES OPENING OF ANNUAL CONVENTION AT POMONA TOMORROW.

Nearly 4000 people last night attended the second annual May festival concert given by the Los Angeles County Sunday-School Association, at Bible Institute Auditorium, as a preliminary to the thirty-third annual convention of the association. This convention will open in Pomona tomorrow morning and will continue until Friday night.

One of the striking features of last night's programme was the singing by the great chorus, and then by the chorus and immense assemblage, of MacDermid's new patriotic song, "Land of Mine." In the midst of this impressive song the music was stopped and all the people rose to their feet and saluted the American flag, repeating the pledge of allegiance.

The Sunday-school festival orchestra of fifty pieces gave several numbers; the great chorus of 400 voices sang, and then there were men's choruses and women's choruses, cornet solos, vocal solos, and finally the patriotic cantata, "Barbara Fritchie," by Jules Jordan, with Mrs. Mabie as soprano soloist.

There were numerous patriotic selections in the programme, and one of the stirring numbers was the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the choir and assemblage. Prof. A. A. McCurda, president of the Sunday-School Association, made a short address, in which he spoke of the influence of the Sunday-school upon the thousands of young men who have gone into service under the flag, and of the duty that the Sunday-school has to meet today in sustaining the work of religious instruction for those remaining at home. A generous response was made to the plea for financial assistance for this work.

This preliminary event evoked much interest in the annual convention to open tomorrow morning, and it was announced that 380 delegates have registered for its sessions.

OUR NAVY BIG AID TO ALLIES.

British Told of Debt Owed American Fleet.

Battle is Ready for Germans Whenever Wanted.

Improved Situation Held Due to United States.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, May 14.—American naval aid has been of the greatest help to the British fleet, says Archibald Hurd, the naval expert, writing in the Daily Telegraph on the new situation in the North Sea resulting from the Zeebrugge and Ostend raids, the extension of British mine fields and the generally increasing naval pressure against Germany.

"When the war is over," he says, "the nation will form some conception of the extent of the debt which we owe the American navy for the manner in which is has co-operated, not only in connection with the convoys system, but in fighting the submarines.

"If the naval position is improving today, as if it is, it is due to the fact that the British and American fleets are working in closest accord, supported by an immense body of skilled workers on both sides of the Atlantic who are turning out destroyers and other craft for dealing with the submarines, as well as mines and bombs.

"The Germans can have a battle whenever they want it. The strength of the grand fleet has been well maintained. Some of the finest battleships of the United States Navy are now associated with it. They are not only splendid fighting ships, but they are well officered and manned.

"If Admiral Beatty were asked his opinion there is no doubt of what he would say of the value of the aid which the United States has given in this respect. The conditions under which the Germans would engage us, therefore, are less favorable to them than two years ago."

NO ESCAPE FOR "REDS."

Mandate of Circuit Court of Appeal Upholds Magon Decision—Pair Must Go to Prison.

The mandate of the United States Circuit Court of Appeal, denying a new trial to Ricardo Flores Magon and Enrique Flores Magon, found guilty more than a year ago before Federal Judge Trippet of sedition, was received yesterday. When the court some time ago denied the motion for a new trial it was announced that the convicted men would appeal to the United States Supreme Court, but that appeal was never perfected and they will now serve under the sentence imposed by the court on the occasion of their second conviction—Enrique Flores Magon, three years, and Ricardo Flores Magon, fifteen months in prison.

Enrique Flores Magon will be taken to the Federal penitentiary on McNeil's Island immediately and an order will be made suspending the orders of the mandate until after the pending trial of Ricardo Flores Magon, who, with Liberado Rivera, is charged with violation of the Espionage Act, set for hearing in the local Federal court June 6.

DIFFER OVER COUNTERS.

City Council Wants Automatic Ones; Board of Works Wants them Human.

The City Council wants automatic counters installed on sewer flush tanks. The Board of Public Works doesn't, so there's a row on as a result.

The board yesterday refused to obey an order for installation of the counters, declaring it to be a waste of the city's money. Councilman Mallard, head of the Finance Committee, opined that the board's letter indicated that the Council was elected merely to obey orders from President Handley of the Board of Public Works.

Councilman Reeves declared the board's attitude was merely for the purpose of keeping four men on the pay roll who now inspect the sewer flush tanks. After getting pretty mad at the board, the Council decided to ask the City Attorney if it had the right to pass an ordinance compelling the installation of counters.

WATCH NERVOUS CHILDREN

St. Vitus' dance is a disease easier to prevent than to cure. Nervous children should therefore be carefully watched for symptoms of the approach of this disease.

Long before the child becomes awkward and begins dropping things there is a period in which the appetite is fickle and the patient is tired and listless. The jerking movements characteristic of the disease come much later.

In the early stages a good tonic for the blood and nerves will go far toward preventing the development of the disease. But the tonic must be free from alcohol and opiates for these make the nervous condition much worse. When your child appears listless, prefers to sit and read rather than go out and play and requires altogether too much time to get his or her lessons, give a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills build up the blood, nourish the starved nerves and improve the general health.

There has been no increase in the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Your druggist sells them or you can order direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Price 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50. Booklet on nervous disorders free.

NEW COMPLICATIONS IN MAIL FRAUD CASE.

SUIT OVER DAND INVOLVED IN FEDERAL ACTION FILED IN SUPERIOR COURT.

It is thought that the Federal grand jury investigating the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud made against Lloyd E. Noble, a real estate agent with offices in the Grant Building, will make a report to the court Friday. The specific charge against Noble is that he illegally and fraudulently secured possession of 314 acres of land located in Riverside county, belonging to C. H. Cannon and valued at $175,000.

Yesterday a suit was filed in the Superior Court by William T. Kendrick, Jr., to restrain C. L. Waldo and Fred H. Richman, Los Angeles money lenders, from foreclosing a deed of trust for $4250 on the land, alleging that the signatures of C. H. Cannon and his wife, Ann Cannon, and the acknowledgements thereto, made by Noble, are forgeries.

Cannon admits owing Waldo and Richman $1000.

Some days ago Attorney Kendrick brought an action in behalf of Cannon to set aside a grant deed purported to have been signed by Cannon and his wife and deeding over to Ceba E. Noble, wife of Noble, the entire tract of 314 acres. Noble says that the grant deed was made out in blank for the purpose of effecting a trade through Noble of the Riverside ranch for the Robert E. Lee Hotel in San Diego. At the hearing before United States Commissioner Long, Cannon denied that Ceba E. Noble's name appeared in this deed as grantee at the time he signed it, and also denied that his signature was acknowledged before Notary A. E. Herrington, the father of Mrs. Noble.

At the hearing it was stated by Lyndol L. Young, Assistant United States Attorney, that Herrington's notarial record had been "doctored" after the hearing before the commissioner.

MAKES APPEAL FOR WOMEN'S HOSPITALS.

FEMININE PHYSICIAN TELLS OF WORK ACCOMPLISHED AND HELP WANTED.

For several weeks women doctors of Los Angeles in addition to their already busy hours have been devoting a good deal of time in working out the details for raising a fund for the American Women's Hospitals.

The American Women's Hospitals is an organization composed of 2000 American women physicians, surgeons, anaesthetists, bacteriologists and obstetricians, and is represented in thirty-six States of the Union.

In the interest of this organization, Dr. Mariettta H. Bewley, a Los Angeles physician, gave an address to the student body of the Bible Institute at Hope and Seventh streets Tuesday morning. In an interesting and forceful speech the doctor, who has been actively engaged in the preparation of a campaign to raise funds for the work, explained the objects of the organization.

Touching on work actually accomplished, Dr. Bewley said: "The American Women's Hospitals has already sent sixty-five American women, who are doing medical and surgical work in France, Belgium and Serbia. Five hundred more are ready for immediate call. Their slogan is: 'We are ready; put us over.'

"People in the Allied countries are asking us to come. The civilian population in the devastated regions, old men, women and children, are greatly in need of medical aid. Numbers of these unfortunates have been some time without any medical care, the men having all gone to the front. Are we not to help them? Shall we not send them medical aid?"

"Three Los Angeles women physicians have already gone 'over there.' Others are waiting to go.

"Hundreds of thousands of the stricken countries are suffering from tuberculosis. If they are to be saved they must have medical care as well as proper food, housing and clothes.

"The American women's hospitals are patterned after the Scottish women's hospitals, which were founded in 1914. They have been in the firing line, taking care of hundreds of the wounded as they were brought in from the field.

"We, the American women's hospitals, are now making our membership campaign. A membership fee of $1 will never be felt by the individual, but multiplied by hundreds it will mean much to our suffering friends and allies. We want your help."

Mrs. Frances Allison immediately appointed a committee as follows: Miss Gertrude Willis, chairman; Lena Geodman, Mrs. Blanche Shinn and Miss Ada Brown, to solicit funds for the hospitals, which are officially indorsed by the Red Cross Society.

PRESENT SOLID WAR FRONT, URGES BRYAN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 15.—"The most terrifying news the Kaiser could hear will be that this country is presenting a solid front behind its government," said William Jennings Bryan, former Secretary of State, last night before a Pasadena Chautauqua audience.

"No income tax," he said, "could be as high as the tax of blood and life paid by the soldiers."

Mr. Bryan spoke at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday afternoon and will leave for Bakersfield this morning. Last night he was the guest of the Hotel Maryland at Pasadena. He will be in California for a month, during which time he will address some forty audiences.

"In the conduct of this war we may be divided into three classes. The first is the soldier who sacrifices everything. The second is the government official with his great load of responsibility. The third is the people who with their production and money are behind the soldier," Mr. Bryan said.

"Mr. Baker faced his Senator critics and overwhelmed them. Mr. Daniels completely silenced his critics, and now it is known that we have as good a navy as wisdom can provide. Their own responsibility is great, for if they had not been able to justify their administration of their country's war activities they would have been forced to retire under a cloud which would have followed them as long as they lived."

Mr. Bryan paid his respects to breweries, distilleries and saloons, and prophesied that within a year the country will have ratified the constitutional amendment.

The Kaiser was referred to as the most fitting example of an arbitrary ruler supported by military caste. "We cannot afford to have our ideas of a republic overthrown by a ruler of this type, and have history record that an emperor was better able to mobilize and conduct a war than a country of free citizens," he said. Mr. Bryan's war remarks were a preface to his lecture, "The Making of a Man." He called upon the people for the support of the Red Cross, the Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus, Jewish societies, the Lutheran Brotherhood, the Salvation Army and the Y.W.C.A.

TO GO TO FRANCE.

Everett P. Teasdale, who recently resigned as secretary of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Welfare Commission, will leave in the near future for France, to engage in Y.M.C.A. work, according to an announcement made before the Temple Men's Club at a meeting in Temple Baptist Church last night.

"In addition to these, there were some instances of lack of tact on the part of salesmen approaching citizens. Experience should remedy this. They were very few, considering the large number of salesmen engaged and their enthusiasm. There is another class of cases where citizens have been grossly discourteous to salesmen, who were contributing their time voluntarily to the service of the government, and were therefore entitled to, first, absolute courtesy, and second, to an immediate interview. A few of these cases of discourtesy have tried the patience of this committee very sorely, but in each instance where the offense was flagrant, the citizen afterwards bought Liberty Bonds to an extent which took him out of the purview of this committee's activity. We would suggest that the duties of this committee be enlarged, or another committee appointed, which would have the obligation and the duty of reporting definitely all cases of discourtesy.

"In the course of our investigations some instances of disloyalty were discovered. These were turned over to the consideration of the Department of Justice.

"A complete history of each case is on file with this committee. Some who are not mentioned were not entirely satisfactory, but this will be

JEALOUSY AND SUSPICION PROMPT SHOCKING DEED.

Slayer of Philosopher's Secretary Says the Latter was "Too Attentive" to Young Woman.

JEALOUSY, hatred and doubt, mingled with resentment, and a suspicion that his financial interests were suffering through acts in which he thought the slain man had a part, formed the motive behind the murder by Charles Anderson of William MacKendrick, auditor and financial secretary to George Edwin Burnell, wealthy philosopher and lecturer on metaphysics, in Mr. Burnell's Los Angeles home, No. 1436 South Flower street, yesterday.

That Miss Della Buckley, Mr. Burnell's associate in his work, and a member of his household, was not only a factor in the tragedy, but perhaps also was intended to be a victim, is the view taken by the police detectives. Miss Buckley's statement to the police is considered by them one of the strongest bits of evidence against Anderson.

WHAT HE SAYS.

In his confession of the slaying to the police Anderson divided his motive about equally between Miss Buckley and financial matters. According to Mr. Burnell, he was probably jealous of Mr. MacKendrick. The slayer declared the dead man was "too attentive" to Miss Buckley, and that he had warned him to drop it. He further said he felt resentful of the part he suspected Mr. MacKendrick played in delaying what he thought a fair statement of investments he says he made through Mr. Burnell. He charged he paid Mr. Burnell $1000 as the first payment for the written lectures on metaphysics, and that at other times he paid sums of money for the privilege of studying philosophy.

His resentment grew into hatred, he told the detectives at the City Jail, when he could not get a complete statement as to the state of his finances. In all, he declared in his statement, he paid Mr. Burnell about $9500, for lectures and investments.

Mr. Burnell says these investments were made, but that it was an ordinary business transaction, made at Anderson's request, and with no irregularities of any kind.

The young woman's statement and those of Mr. Burnell, and Mrs. Rita Hall and Mrs. M. Madison, eyewitnesses of the death struggle between Anderson and his victim, were made voluntarily and with the view of helping the authorities to clear up the complicated case.

Anderson, who had been a student of Mr. Burnell's philosophy for the last ten years, and whose financial affairs were placed, according to his own statement, in the hands of Mr. Burnell and Mr. MacKendrick, called at the Flower-street residence and office of the metaphysician yesterday morning with the object of seeing him, the police say. Mr. Burnell was not in. He and Mrs. Burnell, also a lecturer on metaphysics, were at their estate on Foothill boulevard, near Arcadia, at the time.

According to servants in the house, Anderson, when told Mr. Burnell was not in, asked if Mr. MacKendrick was in the office. Then, instead of waiting for the accountant to come down to see him, brushed Mrs. Hall aside and started up the stairway leading to the east room, where the lectures are held, and where Mr. MacKendrick was working at the time.

THE SLAYING.

Mrs. Hall, who was acting as housekeeper, heard Mr. MacKendrick speak harshly to Anderson, and call him a fool, the detectives say. There were a few more words, and in the next instant the occupants of the house heard the two men struggling in the hall.

Fighting every inch of the way, the two men rolled toward the lecture-room. Miss Buckley locked herself in a near-by room.

As Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Madison reached the second-floor landing they saw Mr. MacKendrick and Anderson, with locked arms and legs, rolling through the room in the midst of overturned chairs and furniture. There was a break in the struggling mass on the floor, and one of the women saw the flash of a blade. In the next instant Anderson, himself bleeding from the knee, and reeling, rose to his feet. Before anyone could realize what happened, the man escaped.

Mr. MacKendrick was stabbed in the chin, shoulder and the thigh. He was carried downstairs, blood flowing fast through the leg wound. When Dr. H. E. McDonald arrived several minutes later, he was dead. One of the principal arteries in the leg was severed.

Mrs. MacKendrick was summoned by telephone from her home at No. 1439½ Albany street, only a short distance away. For an hour and a half she worked with Dr. MacDon-

TURNVEREIN ALTERS NAME.

Drops Germania and Displays a Service Banner and New American Flag.

The words "Turnverein Germania" hereafter will not greet the public as it passes the seat of German physical training at No. 1345 South Figueroa street. A few days ago a group of citizens painted a bright yellow the sign that for many years has arched the entrance to the gymnasium. The tinting caused the sign to be removed by the proprietors of the institution, and all that now remains of the decorating are a number of splotches of the paint on the sidewalk and the supporting posts.

After removing the offending sign the authorities placed a huge substitute bearing the words "School of Physical Culture," which stretches across the entire front of the building. In addition, a brand new service flag carrying fourteen stars has been appended to a corner of the gymnasium, and a new American flag floats from the flag pole that formerly bore the institution banner.

HEIRESS' HUSBAND WILL ANSWER NOW.

FLETCHER MURDOCK AGREES TO REPLY TO QUESTIONS IN DIVORCE SUIT.

Fletcher W. Murdock, who declined to have his deposition taken in proceedings for divorce brought by Mrs. Edith de Barros Murdock, Brazilian heiress, was purged of contempt yesterday when he told Judge Jackson he would consent to appear before a notary and answer the questions of Attorney Morrow.

Jointly charged with Mr. Murdock is Miss Lulu Bowyer, who is the other woman named in Mrs. Murdock's divorce suit. Miss Bowyer likewise refused to answer the questions. She was in Judge Jackson's court yesterday, and, because she did not consent to answer the questions, Judge Jackson transferred the matter to Judge Wood's court, where it properly belongs. Judge Wood continued the case until next Monday.

Attorney Banks, representing Miss Bowyer, contends that she cannot be compelled to answer the questions, not being a defendant or a party to the action. In the recent suit brought by Mrs. Murdock against Mr. Murdock to recover property Miss Bowyer was a witness, denying that she had been alone in Mr. Murdock's company except on one occasion when he drove her to a cabin in Laurel Canyon to get his overcoat. Other evidence was revealed showing that the couple had frequently been seen together.

GRAND JURY INQUIRING INTO HARRIMAN COLONY.

Wagonload of Papers Requisitioned as Evidence; Officials Summoned.

OFFICIALS from Dist.-Atty. Woolwine's office yesterday afternoon invaded the office of Job Harriman, Socialist attorney and colonizer, and served subpoenas on three officers of the defunct Llano del Rio Company of California and its subsidiary companies, ordering them to bring the books and papers of the concerns into the presence of the county grand jury.

Fully a wagonload of corporate books and papers were taken from the office at No. 932 Higgins Building. Swooping down upon the place, the officers served summons on G. P. McCorkle, secretary of the company; C. M. Cason, a book-keeper, and J. E. Beum, attorney, representing the various corporations organized by Harriman in furtherance of his socialistic scheme for a Utopia for his followers in California.

These three representatives of the now deserted Llano colony were haled before the grand jury at the afternoon session of that body. Only a superficial examination was gone into with the witnesses because of other pressing business. A further investigation as to the reasons why the Socialist colony failed and the more prosperous members left for Stables, La., leaving others in the lurch here, will be resumed Friday morning.

HARRIMAN NOT HERE.

Harriman is understood to be at present in the newly-formed Louisiana colony helping to get things settled following the general hegira of Socialists from the Southern California erstwhile Utopia at Llano, near Palmdale.

The grand jury inquiry into conditions existing at Llano, following the exit of Harriman and his followers, was undertaken as an aftermath of The Times' exposure of the blowing up of the socialistic dream of turning the desert into a community El Dorado for all disciples of equal wealth distribution.

Fully a score of complaints were made to Dist.-Atty. Woolwine following this expose. In order to arrive at the facts in the case, the District Attorney dispatched two investigators to the Llano colony. There they were told by the poorer remaining "colonists, who couldn't afford to join the migration to Louisiana, of how Harriman and his fellow-organizers are alleged to have misrepresented to them the conditions under which they went to live in the colony.

MANY IN POVERTY.

Many of these people were left by the others in abject poverty, unable to leave their habitations or to provide themselves with the immediate necessities of life.

Aside from the parent corporation, the other subsidiary concerns operated by the Socialists under Harriman were the Llano del Rio Company of Nevada, the Llano Investment Company and the North Baldy Land and Water Company. The Nevada corporation came into being, it was said, with the idea of establishing a similar colony to that of Llano somewhere on the desert in the southern part of that State.

The investigation is in charge of Deputy District Attorneys Selph and Joos.

Mrs. W. H. Kiernan.

SOCIAL LEADER DIES AT HER MOTHER'S FUNERAL.

NEWS of the sudden death in Green Bay, Wis., of Mrs. W. H. Kiernan of No. 424 Windsor boulevard, Los Angeles, was received here yesterday. Mrs. Kiernan died from shock while attending the funeral of her mother, whose death was also sudden.

Mrs. Kiernan left here the last of April to join Mr. Kiernan in New York, so that they might celebrate their fifteenth wedding anniversary on May 1, together, as they had been accustomed since their marriage. Only recently Mr. and Mrs. Kiernan had entertained as house guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vanderlip of New York City.

Mr. Kiernan is a member of the Vanderlip Syndicate, and is also a director of the National City Bank of New York, of which Mr. Vanderlip is president. The two families are most intimate, having estates adjoining each other, the Kiernans' being at Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Mr. Kiernan is also connected with Mr. Vanderlip in Alaskan interests. He was a business associate and close friend of James Tillman.

News of the death of Mrs. Kiernan was kept from her 12-year-old daughter, Isabel, a student at Westlake School for Girls, here. She was told that her mother is very ill and to hasten with her nurse to New York. The child left yesterday.

Mrs. Kiernan was greatly interested in charity and had planned to take upon herself many new duties, especially Red Cross and other war work, upon her return home. Mr. and Mrs. Kiernan had lived at the Windsor-avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Janss since November.

NEGRO WOMEN GET DAMAGES.

Declare They Were Charged Extra for Admission to Film Theater.

A jury in Judge McCormick's court yesterday awarded $50 damages each to Beatrice Benton and Edna Steward, colored women, who demanded damages aggregating $1000 for alleged discrimination in being charged 25 cents admission instead of the regular price of 10 cents at the Crown Theater, Pasadena, January 1, 1917.

The proprietor of the theater, C. A. Flagg, testified that no discrimination had been intended, but that 25 cents was charged because all of the 10-cent seats were occupied. A mixed jury tried the case.

NEW BANK OFFICERS.

Hollywood Financial Institutions Choose New Heads at Annual Election.

The First National Bank of Hollywood and the Hollywood Savings Bank, which are under the direction of the same officers, elected new officers yesterday at a board meeting in Hollywood. These two banks are situated at Hollywood boulevard and Highland avenue, and are in the same building, but have different organizations. The capitalization of each bank is $25,000 and the deposits for both are $1,300,000.

William P. Hopper was elected president, John P. Roberts, vice-president; E. B. Dietz, cashier, and M. F. Palmer, assistant cashier. The following were elected as directors: F. C. Desmond, J. E. Ransford, P. B. Chase, Edward Winterer and A. J. Witherell.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

Husband Retaliates When His Wife Seeks Separate Maintenance. Plea is Denied.

Mrs. Helma Giles was denied a decree of separate maintenance from Alfred Giles by Judge Wood yesterday after sensational testimony had been given seemingly connecting her name with that of another man. While the court found that there had been no misconduct, he held that Mr. Giles was justified in making the charges.

Mr. Giles, who is an invalid in the East, was well known on the race track some years ago. His first wife was wealthy. The present Mrs. Giles is a native of Sweden. She charged him with failing to provide for her. The evidence showed that about the time of the separation Mr. Giles had about $10,000. Mr. Giles was represented in court by Attorney Gordon.

NO CLOSED SHOP GOES IN THE CITY SCHOOLS.

Alleged Effort to Graft Unionism on Vocational Education is Given Setback.

WHAT is alleged to be an attempt to make of the high schools of Los Angeles a training school for union laborism has been cleverly engineered for the last few weeks; but it received a setback yesterday that is likely to be its undoing. Citizens of Los Angeles who for years have helped to maintain the open shop principles here have signified their intention of taking an active interest in the situation, and the Board of Education may be asked to eradicate the union-labor movement that has sprung up in certain of the city's schools.

When it was decided, some time ago, to take advantage of the provisions for vocational education established through Federal and State aid, by the provisions of the Smith-Hughes act, union labor sympathizers here apparently thought they had the opportunity to graft insidiously upon the city's high school system a course of instruction that would directly inculcate closed-shop ideals among the high school students.

PLAN OF OPERATIONS.

The machinery for such a movement was put into operation, it is alleged, and union labor men were selected for the purpose of fitting them for vocational instructors. Some of them were placed as instructors in several of the high schools, while others were put in training classes at the State Normal School, so that later on they might be placed in these positions.

Eventually, it appears, the plan of handling the vocational work was placed in the hands of a committee of principals. This committee is headed by Miss Ethel Percy Andrus, principal of the Lincoln High School. Its other members are: W. A. Dunn of the Polytechnic High School; Dr. A. E. Wilson, Manual Arts High School; Theodore Fulton, Jefferson High School, and there are a series of subcommittees.

From the very start of this committee's work, it is alleged, Miss Andrus appeared to favor the labor unions, and advised that the industrial data required for a vocational survey upon which to predicate a course of study should be obtained from the labor unions. To this other members of the committee made objection.

A STORMY SESSION.

Finally, Miss Andrus asked the committee to make a report on the vocational survey at a meeting called for yesterday afternoon. This meeting was held at the Olive-street school, and was attended by about thirty members of the teaching force of the high schools. It developed into a stormy session.

Prof. H. LaV. Twining moved that the matter of a vocational survey at this time be laid on the table, as it was impossible, he said, to make a proper survey within the time proposed. He undertook to speak on the subject, but Miss Andrus began to talk. It became a question as to which one could talk the loudest, and finally Prof. Twining was heard, but Miss Andrus would not put his motion to a vote. Then came an amendment to the effect that a report be made as to what the high schools are doing in the way of vocational education and what they propose to do next school year, and that this be published without alteration. After an exciting time this motion was finally put to a vote and was carried. Then Prof. Twining's original motion was put, after some exciting passage of words, and it also carried.

WANTS THEIR APPROVAL.

Miss Andrus stated, it is said, that the labor unions are being "lined up" for the support of the vocational work, and that it is proposed to secure their approval of the system, along with the approval of the nonunion folk.

Miss Andrus last night emphatically denied any attempt on her part to inject union-labor ideas in the schools. She stated that in the discussion yesterday, when the extent of the survey report was considered, she did propose that the basis of an eight-hour wage should be determined by applying at the Labor Temple.

"As to the men employed in the schools," said Miss Andrus, "they were secured through competitive examinations. There are five or six such men employed, and I think some of them are union and some nonunion. I know we have a union man in the Lincoln High School, but I have never heard the word 'union' mentioned there by him. Nor has the Employers' Committee, with whom I have worked, ever discussed the subject at any of their meetings that I have attended, or with me.

"I feel that it is foolish not to consider the unions in our preparation of our boys and girls for vocational work, but that it would be a lamentable condition to teach unionism in the schools. There was nothing at yesterday's meeting that would indicate that a serious attempt has been made or is being made to inject union-labor matters in the city schools."

ARE RESENTENCED.

Judge Makes Mistakes of Applying Law of Offenses that were Committed before its Enactment.

Paul Hermkes and Joe Acosta, who were returned from San Quentin recently because of technical errors in their commitments, were resentenced by Judge Willis, yesterday.

Hermkes was committed to Folsom on a fifteen-year straight sentence, while Acosta was sent back to San Quentin for ten years. In the original commitment Hermkes and Acosta were sentenced under the indeterminate law, but it happened the offense for which each was convicted occurred before the enactment of the new law by the Legislature. As a result, they were brought back to be sentenced under the old law of straight sentences.

Hermkes was found guilty of robbing guests in the Leighton Hotel, No. 2127 West Sixth street, June 18, 1917. Acosta pleaded guilty to second degree murder, involving the death of his wife, Rosalie, June 11, 1917.

Berliner, contractors, their sureties and officials of the city of Tropico for a nonsuit in the action brought by Daisy Mason for $10,370 damages for injuries she received by falling into a hole at Tropico. The ground was that the plaintiff had not shown that the defendants were negligent.

Food Law.

FIVE TO FACE BAKERS' JURY

Are Alleged to Have Used Too Much Wheat.

Suspension of Business for Month if Guilty.

Certificate Plan for Sugar Sales Coming.

Five Los Angeles bakers have been summoned to stand trial next Monday before a jury composed of members of the baking trade for alleged violations of the National Food Administration's rules concerning the amount of wheat flour to be used in baking bread.

The bakers' jury held a preliminary examination yesterday into the evidence submitted to the local Food Administration in eight cases. Three of these were found not to be based on legitimate grounds, but true bills were returned in the other five cases.

These cases will be the first of their kind tried in this city, although in San Francisco the plan has been in effect for some time, and convictions have been reported. According to Frank H. Suffel, county license commissioner, the jury must reach a unanimous verdict in each case for conviction. The names of the men found guilty will be published, but those who are found innocent will be withheld.

MONTH'S SUSPENSION.

It is believed that in case of guilt, Louis M. Cole, City Food Administrator, will ask for power to put the man or woman out of business for at least a month. If the case is particularly flagrant it is possible they will be prohibited the use of wheat flour for the period of the war.

Mr. Cole announced yesterday that the certificate plan of sugar sales for the manufacture of nonessential foodstuffs would be in operation by May 20.

"All manufacturers of candy, soft drinks, chewing gum, sweet pickles, and proprietors of soda water fountains, will be given a certificate for fifty pounds and up of sugar," he said, in explaining the plan. "This certificate must be presented to the regular source of supply and taken up by the wholesaler. The certificates will cover the time between May 20 and July 1. Unless the man surrenders his certificate when he purchases his sugar, the man who sells him the sugar is in danger of having his supplies shut off entirely at the source.

A SUGAR DICTATOR.

"Before the end of the week I will appoint a man who will have sole charge of the local sugar situation. The government means to enforce the sugar regulations as stringently as in the matter of wheat flour. The canning industry must be taken care of."

Mr. Cole yesterday addressed the Friday Morning Club and urged every member to assist the Food Administration in the matter of wheat conservation, saying that it was the most important matter now before the American public.

At a meeting of the Retail Meat Dealers' Association of Los Angeles yesterday, the fish situation was up for discussion, and it is believed that the organization is about to take steps toward a radical reduction in the present price of fish.

While the members refused to discuss in detail the plans, they admitted that they were investigating excessive prices demanded for fish in the local markets, and if the plans under consideration are carried out, Los Angeles can expect plenty of fresh fish at moderate prices within thirty days.

The only change in the fair food prices yesterday was the dropping of 1 cent on the dozen for both extra select and select eggs.

Files Pauper's Oath, Making Government Liable for Expenses; Launches Indictment Fight.

William F. Carlson, the whilom promoter, after filing a pauper's oath in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court yesterday, placing upon the government the burden of paying any witnesses he may care to assume in his behalf, appeared in United States District Judge Bledsoe's court to defend himself on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, involving deals in Imperial county lands. Mr. Carlson appeared in his own behalf.

The charge against the defendant is that he opened up a tract of land in the vicinity of Niland, Imperial county, and offered lots, 50x150, for sale at prices ranging from $90 to $165 each. He advertised his alleged bargains very extensively, and made many sales, it is said. One of the conditions of the contract, it is charged, that he executed in the name of the "Harbor City Industrial Company," was that if, at the end of a year, any purchaser's holdings had not increased in value at least 25 per cent., the corporation would repay all of the money that had been paid, and interest at the rate of 6 per cent. It is a part of the charge of the government that this agreement was never carried out.

WILL INSTALL ELECTRIC PUMPS; SAVE FUEL OIL.

WILLIAM MULHOLLAND, chief engineer of the water department, stated yesterday that while the city's consumption of fuel oil at the various pumping plants last year was 16,000 barrels, the installations of electric power at four plants will cut down this consumption of fuel oil from 4000 to 6000 barrels per year.

Four of the pumping plants are to be operated electrically, he stated. Machinery is now on the way for installation at the Wilmington auxiliary pumping station that supplies water for the Harbor district; the equipment is also due to arrive within a few days for the pumping plant to raise water from the submerged gallery in the Los Angeles River bed, running northerly from Macy street, for a distance of 4000 feet. This is "pick-up" water, and will be pumped to the Hazard reservoir on Boyle Heights.

The other pumping plants to be changed to electrical power operation are the ones at Edendale and Garvanza. These will be changed as soon as the machineery can secured, which is problematic these war times.

Mr. Mulholland states that he does not consider it practicable to undertake to change the motive power at the Buena Vista pumping station, which is the largest consumer of fuel oil. This station requires about 9000 barrels of fuel oil per year for its operation.

UNDER COMMON BANNER

Norwegian Organizations will Observe Anniversary of Their Country's Independence.

Members of the Sons of Norway of Ifing Lodge, Knights Templar, the Norwegian Methodist Church, and Our Saviors Church are to unite under a common banner, that of the American Red Cross, Friday evening, when they will celebrate the anniversary of Norway becoming an independent kingdom, in the Ebell Club auditorium.

An interesting programme has been arranged and Mme. Mae Shumway Enderly will stage her new war play, "Out There," and will also appear in a role called "Peasant Brides." Homer Grunn will play Grieg numbers and Dahm Petersen, Norwegian baritone, will sing and also direct a quartette in the famous, "A Bridal Party on the Hardanger Fjord," which won the first prize at the Paris exposition in 1867, when sung by the Scandinavian students. Mrs. Isabelle Kemp will play a harp solo.

Mrs. Enderly is devoting all of her time to the Red Cross and the Council of Defense. Her son, who is a descendant of a soldier who fought with George Washington, is in the service as a commissioned officer.

WAS CRUEL TO HIM?

Owing to the illness of one of the attorneys, and the engagement of another attorney in court, Harold Bell Wright's divorce suit against Frances Long Wright, which was set in Judge Wood's department for yesterday, was continued until July 25. Mr. Wright, who is a novelist, was not in court.

Mrs. Wright's alleged indifference and lack of appreciation of his literary work, the alleged fact that she was not in touch with him when he was engaged upon a novel, and her neglect of him when he needed sympathy, are told in the complaint. This lack of sympathy is made the basis of a charge of mental cruelty.

MANY GRANDCHILDREN.

Fourteen of Them are Remembered in the Will of the Late William Buxton.

The sum of $3000 each to fourteen grandchildren, aside from other bequests to religious and educational institutions, were the conspicuous items in the will of the late William Buxton, who died at Long Beach on March 5, according to a copy of the will filed for probate yesterday. The property in Los Angeles county included thirty lots in Long Beach.

Among the bequests are $30,000 each to the home and foreign missionary societies of the Methodist Episcopal church. The remainder of the estate was left to Simpson College. Mr. Buxton was a native of Warren, Iowa, the original will having been filed there.

Is Your House Protected?

THE United States government is urging everyone to SAVE. Millons of dollars' worth of farm machinery are annually made useless by lack of paint and shelter. This is a needless waste—what we have, we should preserve.

This applies with equal force to Your House. To allow buildings to run down and become weather-beaten is poor economy.

Brininstool's CLIMATIC HOUSE PAINT is a pure linseed oil product made right here in Los Angeles by a formula particularly designed to withstand the trying conditions of this climate.

Climatic is Ready Mixed and ready to use.

Comes in many attractive, practical colors. Get a color card from your dealer and instruct your painter to use Brininstool's Climatic House Paint and you will not have to paint as often in the future.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-datest:

Organdy for frocks, for hats, for bags, for parasols! Organdy is the season's fondest fad.

Hose of open work, preferably in a lacey design in blocked effect. The colors most favored are brown in various modifications, beige, white and black.

Russian blouses in filmy fabrics, cut on long, straight lines and embellished with bead embroidery or embroidery of silk. These newest blouses should tone with the skirt and under bodice.

Pompons of wool as trimming for smart hats for country wear. One must give more than a glance to discover the material of which these newest fluffs are composed.

Now is the time to buy:

The "stylish stout" corset, if you are inclined to be overplus. The woman who knows about them is especially gifted in telling of the many virtues of these newest developments in molding the too, too figure.

In that linen offering, full-length sheets at cut-short prices. And bed linens are usually full size in cost, these days.

Washable gloves which are shaped as well as are the more expensive ones of kid. These are not alone a saving in price, but they Hoover the better sorts for more particular occasions.

Svelt-figuring.

If you are not too proud to own that you are stout and will frankly try to remedy the—shall we say "defect?"—try the new stylish stout corset. "You have here within your reach the slenderization of your form lines into symmetrical and beautiful contour—making it as perfect, even though it be a 46, as though it were a 36." This is the way it is said by the woman who has in hand the corsetting of the overplus. Then she launches forth into the reasons why and the methods how. And surely, if there are any who need assistance in corsetting, both by means of reasonable selection of these "stays" and by means of the stays themselves, it is the overlarge in figure. Truly, this svelting corset seems to have every reason on its side for perfecting the figure, however stout that figure may have become. It is declared, too, that it not only reduces in appearance, but in fact. One large lady declares that immediately upon donning the new stylish stout she was forced to make over her clothes to take in the skirts around the hips and the blouses at the waist line. She was not at all averse to the alteration, either, you may be sure. It is averred that this newly reducing corset is extremely comfortable as well as good lookful. Didn't I tell you where? At that brotherly store, to be sure!

Swat the Foe!

If you have not learned that, next to the German, the fly is our enemy—not allen, but domestic—it is time you listened to the remarks of your government and of all the sanitarians. Then if you are right-minded you will begin to swat. There is a new and sanitary fly swatter—the season's very latest mode in swattery. It is shaped quite like the old-style swatters, but is of rubber. Being of this material it can easily be cleansed and that is why it is sanitary. No mangled remains of the foe left lying around the premises, you see, when this new rubber swatter is the implement of the demise.

"Phantom" Garments.

"Phantom silk" is the name given by that Parisian Seventh-street store to the woven silk underthings that it specializes in. Is that not a good name for garments which we are wistful of reducing to the minimum?

A Seaming Mode.

With the mode of finishing seams of frocks and especially of blouses with some odd little hand-stitch, much originality is possible. Adeline has just completed a blouse of white chiffon cloth which she at first contemplated having hemstitched, but she finaly decided upon something even more fetching. She ran fine gold beads along each seam, which would otherwise have been hemstitched, the effect being similar to a seed stitch, save that it was much more beautiful, and also the beads are not likely to fade with cleansing. Anne intends finishing her black Georgette with turquoise blue beads in a similar fashion. There is no end to the possibilities of this beading fad.

Bread Hint.

Because salt retards the raising of bread it is best to add it last to the sponge. Sugar, on the other hand, assists the action of the yeast and should be added to the first mixing.

War-bread Pudding.

Conservation pudding is the new name for bread pudding; and when it is made according to some of the methods it is anything but the old-time horror "bread pudding." One recipe calls for raisins, currants, citron and nuts. These, added to the crumbs of brown bread which have been saved from the family bread board and dried in a paper sack, are mixed, seasoned with spices, welded together with beaten eggs and milk and baked or steamed. When served with a maple sauce the savor is delicious and in fact it becomes a "conservation pudding" only in name. However, perhaps the prin-

The Wonder.

GALLI-CURCI'S VOICE.

THE SOPRANO THAT THE WORLD DREAMED OF.

By Jeanne Redman.

The philharmonic course closed last evening when the most brilliant gathering of the year, 6000 strong, packed Shrine Auditorium to the doors to hear Galli-Curci, the most famous singer in the world, and probably the greatest soprano of two generations. The critic rarely feels adequate when in the presence of great music, but the poverty of words to describe the beauties of sound make an almost impossible task of trying to talk about Galli-Curci.

Always throughout the lives of music lovers they carry in their minds the dream of a possible voice, and time after time they approach a concert hall, feeling that this may be the soprano of their imagination. Galli-Curci has that voice. It transcends the dream, and makes it seem trivial and unworthy, and it encompasses all previous conceptions of what the human voice may be like at its most wonderful. Invariably, upon listening to a soprano with flute obligato, one feels that the flute has a little the better of it, but last evening during the passages of the Shadow Song from "Dinorah" one felt sorry for the flute, although it was beautifully handled by Manuel Berenguer. For there are the tones of a dozen instruments in Galli-Curci's voice. The flute is only one of them. Her low tones are like a pipe organ, with a human quality added to the richness. She embraces the violin and even the 'cello, and always with perfect mastery and superb control.

Galli-Curci's breathing is phenomenal. Without the slightest apparent effort she sustains a note of surpassing clearness and incredible pitch until the nerves ache from the strain. After her great trill in "Dinorah," which she approached pianissimo, swelled through a tremendous crescendo into fortissimo and diminuendo again, a young girl near me exclaimed, "she scares you"—and that is precisely what she does; but it is through a sense of the unreal, the impossible, which she achieves before your incredulous eyes and ears. With all the effect of startling us, however, never once was there evident the slightest tendency to amaze or to show the full extent of her powers where the music did not call for it.

Galli-Curci is an artist, and a skillful musician, and she never stoops to conquer. Her work as a singer is past reproach, and her taste is impeccable. She chose to sing those songs which will always be the haven of the coloraturas' selections from Meyerbeer, Mozart, Rossini and Giordani, but she gave evidence that she is as capable in interpreting lyric songs as she is in opera, for she sang a group of moderns, Fourdrain, Sinding and Massenet, which could not be surpassed in interpretation and technique.

Galli-Curci's encores were many and popular. She sang "Annie Laurie," and the great organ tone of her "doon" is long to be felt and remembered; and at last, after she had aided in auctioning off a pig for the Red Cross, which, by the way, brought several hundred dollars, she sang "Home, Sweet Home."

Mr. Homer Samuels accompanied Galli-Curci with his usual finesse and understanding, and also the Concerto in D, which Chaminade wrote for flute, and which Mr. Berenguer played. A charming encore was the one which Galli-Curci, who is a graduate pianist from the Conservatory at Milan, played for herself, to a great thunder of applause.

Mme. Galli-Curci will be heard in a farewell programme of entirely different selection Friday afternoon at Shrine Auditorium. The hour has been sent for 3 o'clock to accommodate the throngs which will no doubt be struggling to get to the auditorium from all over Southern California.

PICTURES, VAUDEVILLE.

ATTRACTION ON SCREEN AND IN PLAYHOUSES.

"Revelation."

Those who would like to journey through the Bohemian quarter of Paris with Nazimova, the supreme emotional star of stage and screen, as their guide, will do well to visit the Garrick this week, where the celebrated Russian actress is appearing in "Revelation," her photoplay triumph. It is the story of a beautiful sinner who turned saint and forsook the gaisty of the Parisian cafes for the cloistered walls of a convent; a butterfly of the underworld who sold her jewels and gave away her gorgeous raiment in favor of the crucifix and simple clothes of a woman of religion. Care free life in old Paree before the war is well pictured, and later the scene shifts to the battlefields, where Joline, the heroine, who has donned the crimson cross of mercy, finds her lover, and the two are reunited on a higher plane in the bonds of holy matrimony.

"M'liss."

Mary Pickford springs a big surprise on her many followers in "M'liss," her latest picture, at the Palace this week. Despite the fact that this role is entirely different from anything she has heretofore portrayed, Miss Pickford enacts the part in the same inimitable manner as she does that of a society leader or rich man's daughter. "M'liss" is an exceedingly thrilling story, with plenty of big climaxes that hold the spectator in a state of suspense that doesn't relax until the happy ending that is brought about in an entirely unexpected way. "A Polished Villain," a Mack Sennett Keystone comedy, starring Al St. John, and the Christie laughogram, "Love and a Gold Brick," are added attractions.

Pantages.

"The Bombardment and Destruction of Rheims," a military spectacle showing just how the city was captured by the Huns, is the headliner of the current Pantages bill. It is presented by Prof. H. Armand, and is realistic to the slightest detail, an exact duplicate of the city being used in the setting. The city at peace, then war, is excellently portrayed by this mechanical device. And then something that has already been exterminated—in Los Angeles at least—is shown in "Cabaret de Luxe," the offering of Miss Bille Richmond and a large company of talented players. "The Deputy," a musical production full of highly amusing situations is the pleasing offering of Gilroy, Haynes and Montgomery. Mary Dorr imitates some of the country's best-known business and theatrical personages in a way that is remarkable. Hagar and Goodwin are singers, offering a number of their own compositions. Myrna Kahler, juvenile singer and dancer, is playing a return engagement this week. She is just as clever as ever. William S. Hart is the photoplay star of the week in "Satan's Men," a special added attraction.

Burbank.

With an unusually attractive motion-picture feature, and six big acts of vaudeville, the Burbank should be the mecca of both movie and vaudeville enthusiasts this week. Mrs. Vernon Castle is the film star of the week in "Sylvia of the Secret Service," a thrilling detective drama, while the acts are Al Sather, featuring an animated song, "It's a Long Way to Berlin, But We'll Get There," with Douglas Fairbanks as the hero in the illustrations; Marion and Dean, singers and dancers; Pozer and Light, in an original musical offering; Wise and Wiser, acrobatic funsters; Euretta Wolff, ragtime violinist, and George A. Newton, trick roper. "Sylvia of the Secret Service" is a decidely timely production, as it shows the workings of the machine now being used by the government against German spies—the secret service—and shows the daring and nerve of the Federal investigators.

Hippodrome.

They are serving a lot of pep at the Hippodrome this week, and that's saying a lot in these war times, when the theater managers bemoan the lack of said pep. Nina Straw and her minstrel maids show a lot of "class." Good voices and some clever dancers are also present. Then Grey and Graham have a bundle of laughs with their bellboy skit. Pitroff, the Man of Mystery, has an act that cannot be beaten so far as thrills and suspense is concerned. Vera Berlinger, with her soulful, tuneful violin, is always welcome. A rather sophisticated young woman and a thirsty young man are Knorr and Rella, but their troubles all end happily. Some of your old favorites are sung by Virginia Ware with her mellow voice and her charm of manner, while Claire and Atwood demonstrate just what the human anatomy can stand in the way of bumps.

"Her Decision."

The Triangle rather discountenances us from singing the praises of stars. It declares that the story's the thing, and that all the men and women in its many companies are merely players. This is all very well, but fans are very human, and being human, they also are hero worshipers—and they insist on looking up to stars.

Therefore, even the Triangulars have found it wise and expedient to "feature" some of their actors—and what's featuring but starring, I'd like to know? Eh, what, Mr. Davis? The two excellent actors featured in "Her Decision," the new photoplay now at the Riviera, are Barney Sherry and Gloria Swanson.

They deserve the pleasant little honor thrust upon them, Barney has one of his "noble" roles—who can be nobler than he?—and Gloria Swanson plays a girl, a stenographer, who is also one of earth's noblest and best. Sounds tame, for what are photoplays without sin in these unbridled times? But the play isn't dull. There are some genuine sinners in it, and they cause the usual amount of trouble. The pictures were filmed from a magazine story and they bear the Triangle's customary good craftsmanship from photography to subtitles.

The fight in "Her Decision" is unique. It is startlingly new, amazingly dramatic. It occurs between the good girl and her naughty sister, when the latter tries to jump out of a fifth-story window—or perhaps a sixth or seventh. This struggle is the big dramatic climax of the play. It is very well done.

I always like the Triangle plays. They don't excite me much, but they interest me mightily. I find in them the successful working of a serene and secure intelligence—an intelligence that lacks a little in imagination.

THE PASSING SHOWS.

SOME REVIEWS AND A FEW BRIEF COMMENTS.

By Grace Kingsley.

There are four new acts at the Orpheum this week, with the three best of last week held over.

You'd scarce expect one of their age—much less three of 'em—to appear upon the public stage and be prepared so greatly to delight their audiences as do the Three Natalie Sisters, musicians. The trio play on a piano, a violin and a 'cello, respectively, and are a very pretty stage picture. The middle-sized one also sings, in a voice which is tremendously pleasing in the lower and middle registers, and not so pleasing in the higher notes. The ensemble number in which the 'cellist both plays and sings, makes the biggest hit. The only criticism one has to offer is that the girls work in a rather perfunctory way. They are very charming and should cultivate a drawing-room manner, now the vogue with this style of act.

"Love, Honor and Obey" is a sketch written by W. H. Macart and played by Mr. Macart and Ethlynne Bradford. It has some amusing lines, part of them second-runs, but in the main the sketch sounds like a high-school playlet made up as the actors went along.

Loana La Mar still bandages her eyes and professes to read folks' thoughts, getting "oh's" and "ah's" from the audience, and Burley and Burley extract all the comedy possible from leaping over tables and chairs.

The charming little Japanese prima donna, Haruko Onuki, grows in grace and ease of manner and delivery with each performance, and made a tremendous hit yesterday in a new repertoire; George Damerel and Company continue to register a mild success in "The Little Liar," and Wheeler and Moran pile up new laughs in a fresh routine.

Hart's Soldier Boys Next.

That host de luxe, William S. Hart, encouraged by the success of his party given to the officers of his godson regiment, the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Artillery, is to give another party a week from next Saturday night, to the soldiers of the company. The party will be given at the open Plaza grounds, adjoining Exposition Park, and a dance and supper will be features of the occasion.

Mrs. Fairbanks to Come West.

Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks is reported to be coming West shortly for the ostensible purpose of packing her belongings now at the Fairbanks home in Hollywood. The guess is made by intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. airbanks, however, that a reconciliation will be effected at that time, despite Mrs. Fairbanks recent alleged declarations that no such thing could happen.

Scandal Note.

By the way, one of the most painful revelations in regard to the recent affairs of Douglas Fairbanks is that his real name is Douglas Ulhman.

Anita Loos Plans Trip.

Anita Loos, scenario writer, who came West to secure a divorce from her former husband, Frank Palma, and who received it in record time, returned to New York on Sunday. Miss Loos and John Emerson, who have long collaborated in writing and directing photoplays, are now working under an arrangement with the Lasky-Famous Players Company by which they will write and direct six pictures a year.

Miss Loos and Mr. Emerson plan a trip to Europe in the near future, under the chaperonage of Miss Loos' mother, when the two will combine the writing of pictures plays with the entertainment of soldiers in France.

"I should have gone to France when Margaret Mayo recently issued the call for entertainers," said Miss Loos, "had it not been for the state of Mr. Emerson's health at that time. But we mean to take the trip in the not distant future."

Tally's Broadway.

Perhaps the most beautiful, convincing and artistic picture in which Olga Petrova has ever appeared is "The Life Mask," which is on view at Tally's Broadway this week.

The story hinges on the mysterious death of a man who, hated by his wife, dies one night while she is seated by his sick-bed. She dreams she has murdered him, and, awakening in morbid mood, is not quite sure she hasn't actually killed him.

YES, CHANGE THE NAME.

It is proposed to change the name of sauerkraut to something less German so as to assist in its marketing. The demand for the food has been reduced in the East. Why not call it pickled cabbage? That is just what it is.

THE DEMAND.

The trouble with the aircraft production board seems to have arisen through an impracticable attempt to create an all-American airplane at a time when the call of the fighting men in France was for any kind and all kinds of workable aircraft that all the American shops available could turn out.

MODERN CRUSADERS.

Going to the "circus" is a new war phrase that signifies a flight in mass formation of fighting airplanes. The "circus" is composed of aviators that have won reputation in individual encounters with Boche airmen, and to join the circus is the highest honor in the aviation service. The Germans first organized their airmen to hunt the enemy in squadrons; but the plan was quickly adopted by the Allies with highly-gratifying results. Since the organization of the Allied circuses the German air casualties have quadrupled. The hunting picture sends one's blood coursing faster. Lithe birds of the air wake with the sunbeams and soar away beyond the horizon, where the main squadron lies in ambush behind a cloud or fog bank while the scouts sally forth in search of the Boche. How pallid the tournaments of the medieval knights now appear! With the advent of aviation the romance and chivalry of the Middle Ages have been reborn.

THE GREATER WAR.

When the history of the universe is finally written—if it ever is written—"and every hidden thing shall come to light"—is it not probable that we shall see this present war as a symbol of the greater war within the hearts of men, a physical manifestation of the spiritual struggle that is now being waged by those subtle forces that animate the actions of men? Surely there must be a deeper meaning to and reason for this conflict of humanity against itself than man, in his present state of consciousness, can possibly fathom. It must indeed be a war of "principalities and powers," a war within a war whose issues are not with man, but God. Yet man is not merely the plaything of these forces of light and darkness; he is vitally connected with the struggle; he has an interest in the outcome and, feeling this to be so, he cannot abandon the idea of responsibility. Hence it is that when men are called upon to fight and die for a cause which they believe to be right they do not hesitate, but go forth to meet the foe with all the courage inspired by patriotism, by love of justice and by that inner force that is not based on selfishness, but on the desire for unity and truth. This inner voice man may not disobey, though all the kings and leaders of earth should declare peace among the several nations. Peace will not, cannot be established until right has been vindicated and the brotherhood of man shall be attained. Physical death is an incident; the life and death of individuals is but a means toward the attainment of that wondrous goal which man may not yet see, but in which he will surely have his own good part when all that is base in human nature shall have been eliminated.

WASTEFUL EXPERIMENTS.

One regrettable feature of the war preparations of a number of Federal departments has been a disinclination to profit by the experience of our Allies. England and France had been fighting two years and a half before this country declared war. During that period many of the major war problems had been practically solved by English and French departments; but it now appears that most of the governmental departments at Washington embarked on experimentation in place of accepting the experience of the older Allies and turning out war materials as rapidly as possible.

The aircraft scandal might have been avoided if those at the head of airplane production had not imagined they were going to invent a new machine that would at once dominate the air, reflecting undying glory on our country and, incidentally, on the directors of aircraft production. They could not have been blind to the fact that time is priceless and that experiments meant a waste that never can be redeemed. The British War Cabinet prepared a Parliament report several months ago concerning aircraft production, containing the following significant language: "Experience shows that, as a rule, from the date of the conception and design of a new aero engine to the delivery of the first engine in series by the manufacturer more than a year elapses."

If Gen. Squier and his subordinates had studied that report they might have learned the lesson which experience has since taught, and they might have saved themselves and their government the embarrassment of a fiasco. The same comment holds true in relation to the manufacture of heavy artillery. Almost a year has been lost in experimentation and most of the experiments have proved unsatisfactory.

PRO-GERMAN APOLOGISTS.

The Times is tired of the apologists for German kultur. We do not care whether they are American or German-born, whether they consider themselves on a philosophical plane above the tense bitterness of patriotism or are merely in the camouflaged pay of the Kaiser. There are some people who see in the so-called Germanic arts, poetry and science certain values that should palliate the monstrous crimes and bestial brutality of the Huns. There are some people, too, who find in the vile depravity of unmentionable social criminals a certain human kinship which causes defenses to be written and spoken for them. You can find apologists for almost anything or anybody; but it is amazing that in the United States today there are presumably intelligent people who still insist on ding-donging the glories of German kultur.

Look to the fields of war. The Prussian Junkers, the Hohenzollerns and all their vulturous brood, the German soldier—erstwhile shopkeeper—have raped our women, spitted our babies on their barbed bayonets, fired our cathedrals, tortured our wounded and, with every diabolism known to a fiendish mind, tried to strike terror into the souls of our men and women. All that has been done against the Allies, against Flanders and France, the coastal villages of England and the cities of Belgium has been done against the people of America. They over there are ours. The blood of our soldiers is mingling with the life ebb of their own wounded and, in the union of an embattled civilization against the power of Germany, we have all become the United Nations of Humanity.

The horrors of which Germany is proud, the ruthlessness of which she boasts, is the product of German kultur.

The blood-dripping operas with the "blonde beast" of a Siegfried prancing to the thunderous roar of Wagnerian cacophonies represents the epitome of German esthetics. Their poets are Heine and Goethe, and Heine voiced a warning to the world against the day when the German brute would rise and destroy. Besides, Heine was a foreigner, and though the German apologists boast of him, even were he alive today, he could not vote. And Goethe was so little a German, a typical German, the sort that the world encounters today, that, though the military stress and storm of his day has filled history, he gave it no attention. He was not a Prussian; and as for his "Faust"—read it, admire it, then ask if, in the dubious purity of one masterpiece, the bloodstained hands of sixty million Huns can be washed clean! German art is a travesty on the sensibilities of artists in all other lands; an art that is fat and florid, beery and hideous. And German science—there indeed we have true kultur. It has ever been incidental to the work of war. Its laboratories have devised poison cultures for dissemination among noncombatants; and gas shells were made long, long before war broke. They have been found bearing the stamp: "Essen 1912." Science indeed! Shall we worship the "science" of the assassin who sedulously labors to invent new instruments of destruction and incidentally discovers a few by-products of commercial value? And German education—German universities—what of them? For forty years they have preached the divine right of violence, the power of force and the contemptibility of sentiment or sympathy.

The Times, we repeat, is tired of pro German apologists. They whine around because German books have been kicked out of libraries, the German language thrown out of schools, German music silenced, German directors thrown into detention camps; and with true Teutonic vulgarity they abuse those who disagree with them. In Chicago, since this war started, there have been adopted school books bearing on their covers the Prussian eagle; and between those covers German lessons meant for children in the grades, lessons which laud the Kaiser and say that Germany has a government like that of the United States. That is one instance of what the pro-Germans like to see. They want our children to be corrupted with Prussian doctrines and Prussian sympathies when at the most impressionable age.

These kultural apologists do not want us to be at war with Germany. That is the source of the whole trouble. But America is tired of them and their whines. German kultur is loathsome, vicious and valueless. It must be torn out and never permitted to get a root-hold in this country. At best it is and for long has been but the camouflage for propaganda, for the movement of spies and the seduction of traitors. Away with it! The grain of merit it may possibly have is not to be weighed against the barbarity that it is designed to conceal.

And as for the pro-German apologists, if they are so infatuated with kultur let them go to Germany and be quick about it.

War is hell!

WAR SPORTS.

War sports are taking their place alongside war industries and war finances. In the shipyards of the Allied countries a series of competitions has been inaugurated to determine which people and which yard is the most active, capable and powerful in the different departments of ship construction. The competition among the riveters has already become international. High individual averages and team scores are tabulated and published like the standing and batting averages of the leading ball players. At the present time a Liverpool team holds the world's record, but teams from half a dozen American yards have entered the competition.

All this activity is frowned upon by the walking delegates of the labor unions; but it has already gotten away from them and the union men are quick to get into the game. Similar competitions are developing along other lines. How rapidly the world is indeed moving! The war may result in finding a vent for the skill, the spirit of rivalry and the enthusiasm that have made baseball and football world sports in lines that will be alike exhilarating and useful. Everything, even sport, passes through continuous transformations. It is folly, after all, to expect aught to stand still on a planet that is moving at the rate of 1000 miles a minute.

The poor simp whose shot caused the war is dead. When in the history of the world has such a minor affair led up to such tragic results? But the shooting of Crown Prince Ferdinand may have only been the excuse instead of the reason for the war.

The Woods are Full of 'Em.

"BUREAUCRATIC ALMSHOUSE."

Government operation of the railroads of the country may be justified as a war necessity; but it is daily becoming more apparent that, viewed as a financial venture, it is a dismal failure. Estimates based on the reports of two months of operation indicate that there will be a deficit of not less than $500,000,000 at the end of the year. This estimate includes the $950,000,000 which the government must pay in rentals to the different lines; but it does not take into consideration the increase in pay of $300,000,000 recommended by the Lane Commission for the railroad brotherhoods and other employees. During the month of January, 1918, the profit of $76,000,000 made by the railroads in January, 1917, was converted into a loss of $2,000,000. The financial statement for February is equally unsatisfactory.

Envisaged by that half-billion-dollar deficit, the Interstate Commerce Commission has recognized the fact that money must be produced from some source to balance the railroad ledger; and it has announced an increase in freight and passenger rates averaging from 15 to 45 per cent. This increase will be very acceptable to the holders of railway securities, as it establishes a precedent for the after-the-war period, but it will work a hardship on thousands of shippers. It threatens an increase in orange and lemon tariffs that will be a formidable handicap to California growers. A Democratic policy of free trade and 50 per cent. increases in freight rates will not disturb the bureaucrats and the politicians; but it is a serious blow to the industry of the country. The passenger service has already been overhauled; about half the trains have been discontinued and the others are running on slower schedules. The Atlantic coast has receded twelve hours in time from California by rail since the government has taken over the operation of the railroads.

When nationalization of railroads was under consideration in Great Britain a few months ago Walter Sichel, a Scotch economist, voiced the following prophecy and warning in the London Saturday Review:

> It would also mean everlasting demands for extortionate wages on a government that, if it surrendered, would betray independence, initiative and indeed freedom; and, if it withstood, would create a Bolshevik revolution.
> The effect on the national character would be inexpressible. England would become a bureaucratic almshouse for incompetent greed; initiative, which is the fuel of life, would not only be wasted, but annulled.

When one considers the increases in wages for employees (now higher paid than any others outside the shipyards and ammunition factories) together with the advances in rates proposed, one cannot evade the conviction that Mr. Sichel read aright the portent of government ownership and operation of railroads alike in Great Britain and in this country. California has had a taste of that "bureaucratic almshouse" condition through State commissionized government; if it is to be followed by a sharp increase in freight and passenger rates between the East and West coasts the blow to all western industry will be serious.

There is a shortage of farm hands in Minnesota and as high as $45 a month is being paid in some sections of the State. What makes the employment more attractive is the fact that one is not compelled to talk Swedish.

A woman's Democratic club in New York voted down a resolution asking that boards of elections do not use barber shops as polling places. They possibly want to get accustomed to them.

HUN MELODRAMA.

When one observes the part played by the Kaiser in the present war it is not difficult to understand why a German intellect should have created Faust. There are few parallels in history or literature for the cynical hypocrisy of the following lamentations of the Kaiser over the destruction of St. Quentin:

> "Nothing remains but the frightful skeleton of a dead city, a city that has been murdered in blind fury by a brother's hand. Compassion as for a human being overmasters one on thinking what this city was and what it is. . . . Oh, how my heart bleeds at this desolation of a city which one of my own ancestors, Admiral Coligny, defended so heroically against the Spaniards. It is as though I saw before me the bleeding corpse of a near and honored relative."

This lamentation was evoked because St. Quentin was shelled by the Allies while occupied by German troops. It was the key of the Hun line in Picardy. If the Kaiser cared a pfennig for the town he would not have permitted the German trenches to be withdrawn voluntarily from a line farther in advance and reconstructed so as to run right through it. If the German people are caught by such claptrap it will be necessary for us to revise our estimate of the intelligence of the German masses.

I.W.W. DEVILTRY.

In the States of Montana and Washington are many corporations engaged in getting out lumber for the construction of wooden ships. They employ thousands of men, and among their employees there are many members of the I.W.W.

The Christian Science Monitor says of these anarchists that they work secretly and silently and are bent upon destruction, apparently for its own sake. They are at war with society. They are at war with government. They are possessed with an antipathy to honest industry. They are obsessed with a hatred of fellow-beings who refuse to accept their social and industrial methods.

They drive railroad spikes and steel drift bolts into logs destined for the mills in order that the saws may be destroyed. They drive nails, rasps and knife blades into spruce timber especially designed for government use. They drain donkey engines in order that the crown plates may be burned out. They introduce emery into oil that is intended for the lubrication of machinery. They start fires. They subject those employed with them to all manner of risk. They are apparently without feeling, without consideration, without conscience. They seem to be impervious to gratitude; oblivious of moral obligation.

Many men working with them lose limb or life by reason of their calculated treachery. The Monitor says that its news columns have recently contained, among many similar items, one going to show the sort of sabotage which the I.W.W. affects in the lumbering camps. It seems that a steel rasp sunk into an airplane spruce by one of these men was recently hit by sawing apparatus valued at $1000. The machinery was ruined.

BETWEEN PARIS AND THE FRONT.

How Life Goes on in France—Humors of the War Situation.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent of The Times.

PARIS, April 28.—When it came to fabricating something out of nothing Baron Munchausen was a candidate for the primary class for pikers as compared with the German newspapers, while Ananias was one thirsting after truth.

As had been guessed in advance, the long-range bombardment of Paris is being used by these newspapers to encourage the German people, who have their daubers down. This sort of propaganda is mainly in the form of fake dispatches from "neutral" correspondents in Paris who never existed and who escaped across the Spanish or Swiss border at great peril to their non-corporeal selves.

These astral correspondents advise all neutrals to avoid visiting Paris, so fatal to life is the bombardment, while they picture the streets deserted and the population fleeing south. They depict the Place de l'Opera as a mass of debris, the glass in the Grande Hotel shattered, priceless statuary demolished and banks and business houses smoldering in their own ashes.

Also, the Kreuz-Zeitung has informed its readers that M. Clemenceau is terrorizing France as did Robespierre. This paper admits that nobody as yet has been executed, but intimates that the streets will soon be running with the blood of his victims. The gullible German public is told that the Paris prisons or hoosegows are inadequate to hold those who have been pinched for spreading discouraging reports; that schools are held in the cellars; that the streets are empty and that the theaters have hung the padlock on the front doors.

Personally, I have had trouble horning into the restaurants, they are so crowded, while there are so many good shows running that no theater-goer can hope to cover the territory. Today while strolling down the Boulevard des Italiens I saw more people than I had ever witnessed on one street before. It was the Sunday afternoon promenade. The sidewalks, easily double the width of those on Broadway, were crowded from show window to curb, and the two streams of strollers reached as far as the eye could see. Apparently the people were thinking of everything else in the world except the Kaiser's pet gun.

The Loyal Order of Moose has opened headquarters here at No. 5 Boulevard Malesherbes. Its purpose is to provide lounging, reading and recreation rooms for members of the order serving in the American Expeditionary Force. It is expected that 150,000 members of the order will soon be seeing service in this country. In the quarters are pool and billiard tables, and there is also a lodgeroom in which meetings will be held regularly. This step is the result of investigations made here by a commission sent from America by the order.

In some ways Europe seems like a toyland to me. After visualizing the vast reaches of the western continent things impress one as being strangely close together here. London and Paris are only a few hours apart, while it is a mere jaunt from here to Italy, requiring less time than from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Correspondents divide their time between the front and Paris. They may witness a battle and then a few hours later be writing from Paris or London.

A fine work is being done here by the American Home Service for soldiers founded by Mrs. Alice Weeks, who came from the States in 1914 to be near her son, who had enlisted in the Foreign Legion. Tea is served free to soldiers every afternoon; they have the free use of reading and recreation rooms, and if in town for a few days can secure accommodations and lodgings for a few francs. The original quarters could not meet the demand, and a second home has been opened at 21 Champs-Elysees.

That music is the language of all people is shown by the crowds drawn by a series of concerts given by an American military band in charge of Berthal A. Downey. "The French," said Mr. Downey, "care more for classical music, so I give them such 'morceaux' as 'Poet and Peasant,' 'William Tell,' 'Atlantis,' Hosmer's 'Southern Rhapsody' and the like. Now, last night we had a concert for Americans and, you know, they like a totally different style of programme. Here is the programme for the American audience: March, 'Tropic to' Tropic,' 'Princess of India,' 'Remick's Hits,' 'Long Boy,' 'My Old Kentucky Home, (fantasie,) 'A Garden Dance,' 'High Jinks,' 'Invitation a la Valse,' 'Home, Sweet Home —the World Over' and 'The Stars and Stripes Forever.'"

Frenchman and American applauded alike, however, when the "Marseillaise" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were played.

Hoped to escape from sports by coming over here, but it can't be done. The sound of the base-hit is to be heard on every side, while a friend dragged me out to a boxing match the other night. Sports pursued me even into midocean. When half-way across the soldiers staged a series of boxing and wrestling matches on the after-deck. With five miles of water under the combatants, and thousands of soldiers crowded around the ring, hanging from spars and cranes or leaning over the upper decks, it probably was one of the most unique boxing bills ever staged. There were eight bouts, some of them rattling good ones and two knockouts. One of the fellows who was knocked out told me afterward that his impression was he had been knocked overboard and that his head hit the bottom of the ocean. As far as getting away from sports is concerned it can't be done. I hadn't been here a week when a Paris newspaper offered me a job as baseball editor. Being in a bigger game, I was compelled to refuse.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

MAN POWER.

They're talking now of drafting men whose years have numbered fifty; and hope springs in my breast again, the prospects now seem nifty. Before this beastly war is done fool rules will go a-skiting, and loyal gents who weigh a ton may go and do some fighting. They've barred me out because I'm fat and deaf and broken-winded; and rules responsible for that I hope will be rescinded. When first we broke into the game Apollos were demanded; "We do not want the old or lame"—the officers were candid. "No man is fit to chase the Hun unless he's like Narcissus." And so I dropped my sword and gun and went home to the missus. "They're mighty choice," said Jane, "my lad, to turn down beefy writers; but wait a while and they'll be glad to get such deadly fighters." And now it seems that Jane was right; the sergeant's growing thrifty, and he admits a gent may fight who gives his age as fifty. And pretty soon the fat and bald, the spavined and the sweenied will from the paths of peace be called by Uncle Sam subpoenaed. For paths of peace I care no hoot, I burn with martial ardor; I long to slay the kraut-fed Teut and confiscate his larder. Let down the bars! Let every skate who wants to fight go fighting, though he may score three hundredweight, as I do at this writing. WALT MASON.

OTHER NEWSPAPERS.

An organization calling itself the Knights of Liberty is busily engaged in California tarring and feathering persons suspected of disloyalty. These are not knights of liberty, but knights of lawlessness and only less reprehensible than Prussianism. Liberty needs them only in jail.—[New York World.

"When quality gits to gedder the compliments sho' do fly," says the Virginia negro. The tributes paid by correspondents to the American soldiers at the front are doubtless deserved, but their force is not strengthened by extravagance of language. To be told that their feats are "amazing" grates on stay-at-homes as it would upon the objects of cabled amazement. Pershing's men are all right. That they measure fully up to requirements surprises nobody who knows the "buddy" or the "doughboy," or whatever he may choose to call himself. Amazement would be felt only if they failed.—[New York Herald.

Now the British government is being assailed for lax treatment of enemy aliens. Anglo-Saxon traditions make it hard to realize that freedom of speech and freedom of action may have to be curtailed in wartime.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

When the Kaiserin receives the violets picked for her by the Kaiser on the battlefield she can console herself with the thought that the blood amid which they grew was none of her family's, but belonged entirely to other German mothers.—[Baltimore American.

Universal, compulsory training and service must provide the basis for the nation's future defense, and a beginning ought to be made now while the machinery is in operation.—[Kansas City Star.

God pity the rat who is found to have been delaying the war game by fattening himself on the wealth of the United States appropriated for the production of airplanes.—[St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The greatest factor in our economic troubles has been idleness. An idle person is a clog in the wheels of social progress. Not only does he produce nothing for himself and others, but he absorbs much of the energy required to keep civilization moving forward. Whether he be a "malefactor of great wealth," with predatory habits, or just a patron of the side-door Pullmans, beating his way from water tank to water tank and taking hand-outs from friendly back doors, he is hurtful to society.—[San Antonio Light.

Now the war is driving the cabaret out of its last strongholds. It is extravagant, bad for health and morals, and otherwise subversive of wartime aims. It had a short life, but a hectic one, and will remain as a piquant episode in this country's social history.—[Spokane Spokesman-Review.

As a nation, we have not accomplished all we wished in any direction, but this much is certain: We have laid the foundation for the raising, if such action becomes necessary, of one of the biggest armies ever called to the colors by any nation, and we are preparing industry to sustain the burden of maintaining that army without faltering or being crushed.—[Seattle Times.

It is a wonderful thing to be an American and contemplate the grand army of buyers whose savings went into the third Liberty Loan. In the travail of the time we are discovering the stern stuff and splendid devotion that free institutions produce in a people.—[Oregon Journal.

An army conquers by mere force of will. To eternally keep on pounding and advancing when possible were among the most prized tactics of Gen. U. S. Grant

More Confidence for Religious Workers.

Rev. William Lawrence, head the Episcopal church in Massaand president of the Na-Episcopal War Fund, told yesat a luncheon in the Californ what part the church was in the war and of his obin a tour of cantonments. said the country would have confidence in the work of the and navy chaplains if it knew the chaplains were striving to the best better fighters as well ther morally.

"Character makes fighters and makes character," he said. Pershing has asked the gov-ment to furnish every overseas ment with three chaplains, but as nothing has been done in matter.

Until a few weeks ago there was realization of the work of the plains in the army in France. ply the religious needs of the in the trenches has been rec-ed, and Bishop Brent, Rev. Fox, son of the famous evan-ist, and Father Dougherty have ir commissions and are now heads of the religious branches the expeditionary forces."

Bishop Lawrence declares the best part of the United States is awake to the war than the ter in the sobering effect it has on people.

"The West has given to the Red Cross, Liberty Loans and other enterprises wonderfully, but it does not seem to be awake to the real seriousness of this war," he said. "This nation will come when our men begin to arrive maimed and crippled."

Bishop Lawrence left yesterday afternoon for Camp Kearny, where he is scheduled to give an address to the soldiers today. After inspecting the encampment he will return to Los Angeles and give a public address in St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral on Flower street tomorrow night.

THEIR PLATFORM.

In behalf of the Vigilance Committee the following announcement was made by them at the beginning of the campaign:

"In accepting the appointment to the very disagreeable and perhaps onerous duties of this committee we understand our duties require us to make a careful investigation into the ability of any person complained against by the general committee to contribute to Red Cross fund, or the purchase of government securities.

"To make sure that the situation is thoroughly and properly presented to the one complained against, if given that opportunity;

"If, having the ability to financially assist the government, he fails thereafter, it will be our final but solemn duty to make a public record of his attitude accessible for all time."

WHAT THEY SAY.

The Times made an effort last night to secure statements from each of the nine men named in the report of the Vigilance Committee. Those who could be reached expressed themselves as follows:

Frank Dick: I felt that I had explained satisfactorily to the committee. Naming me is an injustice. You can't get blood out of a turnip. I have suffered reverses. I am trying to sell my home now. It is ungentlemanly to name me as the committee has done.

Dr. Clarence F. Cobb: I told the committee that I had only a few hundred dollars in the bank, all of which I owed; that I had only a small income, hardly sufficient to pay my living expenses. I fought through the Civil War, four years as a private. My home is in Washington, D. C. If I had any money I certainly would have subscribed, and so informed the committee. I receive a pension of $30 a month from the government.

William H. Griffin: I certainly think I have done my share in buying Liberty Bonds in proportion to my income. I lately had to take over property which is paying me nothing. My property is not worth, as the committee says, $120,000. It is not worth more than $75,000. My income is at the very most $5000 a year. My conscience is clear, as having done the best I could.

L. M. Davenport of L. M. Davenport Company, farm implements, No. 110 North Los Angeles street. Home, No. 3478 East Fifth street. Mr. Davenport could not be reached last night but his wife explained his position as follows: "Mr. Davenport is a member of the Brethren Church, which is opposed to all war or taking of life, as a matter of principle. For that reason only, Mr. Davenport has not bought bonds, possibly, but his firm has, his children have, and he has contributed to the Y.M.C.A. Red Cross and all other benevolent activities. If Mr. Davenport is worth $100,000 it is all tied up in his business and he has had to work hard to keep it going."

Messrs. Christeanson, Hansen, Dombrowski, Jaeschke and Finkle could not be reached. Mr. Finkle, a consulting engineer with offices in the I. W. Heliman Building, was said to be out of the city. The Finkle properties at the time of his separation from Mrs. Finkle two years ago included the Finkle Arms and Snow Hotel in this city, apartment properties in San Francisco and the residence on West Thirty-first street. He is also said to own apartment property at Santa Monica. By the terms of the separation agreement Mrs. Finkle receives $250 a month for life, this sum guaranteed by a trust deed to the Finkle Arms and the Los Angeles residence.

BATHING SUITS FOR PARK.

The Finance Committee is considering the purchase of 1500 bathing suits, to cost $2000, for use at Exposition Park. The request came for the money in order that the suits may be rented to bathers who will soon commence to use the two new pools at the park. It is said that the city will soon be reimbursed for the outlay.

TO REORGANIZE STATE COUNCIL.

Two Vice-Chairmen Proposed for Defense Body.

More Harmony of Action is the Object Sought.

Women's Clubs to be Merged in War Measure.

The desirability of there being two vice-chairmen of the State Council of Defense, one from San Francisco and one from Los Angeles, with equal powers, was asserted at the meeting of the war conference at the Alexandria yesterday, and resolutions to that effect were adopted. The matter was brought up by Marshall Stimson, who said that harmony in the work of the State Defense Council could best be assured in that way. It was also recommended by the meeting that the personnel of the county councils of defense be composed of men not handicapped by other important official duties.

Ex-Senator Frank P. Flint, chairman of the meeting, stated that there is a plan now before Gov. Stephens for the merging of every women's club in the State under the State Council of Defense. By this plan it is expected that much overlapping of work could be eliminated, as the plan had been proved a success in several Eastern States.

It was asserted by Mrs. Seward Simons of the Women's State Council of Defense that the personnel of the present organization was such that the best results could not be obtained; that overlapping of work is frequent and that the different bodies are handicapped because of the inability of the county officers to attend meetings.

FARM LABOR PROBLEM.

What is being done by the State Council of Defense in regard to securing sufficient farm labor was told by Prof. Adams of the State University, who urged that the county councils install clearing-house of farm information in every section of the State, and that the State and government employment offices be used for this information.

"The State will permit only as the last resort the importation of farm labor," he said. "The councils of defense should be making at all times a complete survey of the needs in the fields. While the present prospect for sufficient farm labor may seem dark, yet I believe if the county councils of defense become efficiently organized they will be able to furnish the information and through the public employment bureaus secure the men to take care of the crops of the State."

A. H. Naftzger, vice-chairman of the State council, read his report of the duties and work performed by the organization, which included Americanization of foreigners, scientific investigation, increased food production, good roads and many other lines of endeavor.

"The State Council of Defense created and financed the Military Welfare Commission with an efficient body of experienced workers guarding and promoting the welfare of soldiers in training camps," he said.

A feature of the women's work that deserves notice and is of growing interest is the establishment in libraries throughout the State of bureaus of war information.

"The recent investigation," said Mr. Naftzger, 'of the petroleum situation in California, the most thorough ever made, was done under the supervision of the State Council of Defense. Alien enemy activities and propaganda have been investigated in hundreds of cases by the organization, and in many instances conviction and internment have followed."

"I advised the War Department against locating a cantonment in Los Angeles," said Dr. Johnson, "because we were not ready at that time. I have visited other cantonments, none of which were properly prepared. Now we have not in the United States a single hospital in which there was room at this time 350 unmarried mothers. These mothers were not wanted in camp at night."

"I am glad to know who was responsible for that," said Councilman Mallard, with much emphasis, "for we had an idea it was from San Francisco."

The conference in Mayor Woodman's office was called at the request of the Council, that the Council appropriate $6000 as first payment for a group of buildings near the San Fernando Tube. It was planned to utilize the buildings for the treatment of social diseases, recommended by the Municipal Welfare Commission, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

COUNCIL TALKS AMENDMENTS.

Four Proposed Changes in Charter Find Sponsors.

Form of Representation is One of Them.

City Attorney Asked About Question of Time.

Four proposed charter amendments were batted about the City Council chamber yesterday, with the body sitting as a committee of the whole, to try to decide whether to get on the floodgates and let all of them get on the November ballot.

The upshot of the conference between the Councilmen and advocates of the four proposed laws was the question of a legal question to the City Attorney as to what is the final day upon which action may be taken that the questions may be placed on the ballot. A decision will be rendered Tuesday, upon receipt of the legal information.

Proponents of district representation, proportional representation, a revision of the license laws and a municipal pension system for city employes discussed the various measures.

Councilman Criswell opined that instead of dividing the questions of proportional representation and district representation, it might be better to consolidate the two and place them on the ballot as one issue.

Councilman Joseph Coyne urged the placing of the pension system question on the ballot.

Councilman Reeves hoped to see the ... license bureau charter amendment on the ballot.

ATTORNEY IS GIVEN LESSON.

Is Barred from Practicing for a Year Because of Misusing Money.

With the view of impressing upon Carlyle Wynn, an attorney, a more punctilious regard for the money intrusted to lawyers by their clients, Judge Monroe yesterday suspended him from the practice of law for one year.

Mr. Wynn was accused by the Los Angeles Bar Association of accepting money from Miss Dorothy Davis and failing to apply it as intended. He did send her his check for a portion of the money, but it developed that this check was retained by Miss Davis pending the outcome of the case.

Mr. Wynn denied the charge and attempted to explain the matter during the trial.

CLOTHING MAN BANKRUPT.

Sidney B. Webb, who says he is a clothing salesman, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court, yesterday. He gave his liabilities as $101,130.41, of which $95,212.06 is alleged to be unsecured. His debts arose, he states, largely from his ownership of 1000 shares of the capital stock of the Panama Oil Company, and eighty-eight of the ninety shares of the Webb-Fisher Company, No. 229 South Spring street. The petitioner schedules these shares as worthless. His assets are $10,100, consisting of three insurance policies, valued at $10,000, and $100 worth of personal belongings, all claimed to be exempt under the law.

LINING UP FOR THE RED CROSS.

Seven Thousand Workers are Ready for Drive.

Precinct Organization Soon will be Complete.

Thirteen Bands will be in Parade Saturday.

The organization of the precinct work for the Red Cross campaign is progressing rapidly, it was stated yesterday by Chairman Harry M. Haldeman of the Campaign Committee. Although started only ten days ago, it is now 80 per cent. complete, and all will be in readiness for the launching of the drive next Monday.

"In the precinct organization we now have 7000 persons thoroughly organized and a large part of the city has been covered by house-to-house canvassers, who have made an itemized list of every resident, to be posted in the precinct headquarters," he said. "This work will be complete within the next two or three days."

On the Red Cross team organization, 300 prominent business men are banded together in thirty teams, each with a captain. These men will give their entire time to the Red Cross work on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, and will cover the larger prospects and the entire downtown district.

IN BUSINESS SECTION.

The industrial organization under Chairman J. S. Riley during the same four days is to take full charge of the business firms and employees and will endeavor to secure a subscription from each employee of every firm in the city. This, with the precinct organization which will check up every home in Los Angeles, means a wide distribution of the Red Cross donations.

"I ask every citizen to meet courteously these men who are doing this patriotic work," said Mr. Haldeman. "They are the agents of the government and have been instructed to report any discourteous treatment to the Vigilance Committee."

SATURDAY'S PARADE.

The opening of the drive will be marked by a mammoth parade, on Saturday, for the success of which practically every organization in the city is co-operating. Thirteen bands will furnish the music, which is under the direction of Marshall B. H. Dyas and Cecil Frankel. The bands to march are Musicians' Mutual Protective Association, Firemens', Los Angeles Postoffice Band, Shrine, Watson Royal Scottish Bagpipe Band, Boy Scouts', Elks', Frank E. Watts', composed of the Country Club and William's Black and Tan bands; the eighty-piece regimental band from Camp Kearny, Coast Artillery, Submarine Base and Naval Training Station bands from San Pedro, Hamburger's Bugle and Drum Corps, Wheeler's Fife and Drum Corps and the Ladies' Band, under the direction of Mrs. Hallie L. Bears.

Of the first $100,000,000 given by the American people to the American Red Cross in June, 1917, $87,000,000 has been appropriated for war relief work. Forty-seven million dollars were devoted to foreign relief work in the lands of the Allies, $8,500,000 was for army and navy hospitals and camps in the United States, and $25,000,000 went for supplies at home and abroad. The balance has been appropriated for relief work and the American people are now asked for a second $100,000,000 to carry this on.

Put This Common-Sense Lens On Your Car

It is legal. The laws of every state in which it has been tested, approve the McKee Standard Lens.

It is a safe lens to ride behind. It lights the road for 600 feet ahead so that obstructions and irregularities can be seen in time to avoid them. It gives a 300 foot side-light so bright that the edges of the road and the banks show clearly. The driver can tell exactly how much clearance to give passing cars. When approaching crossroads, this safe side-light warns you in time so that you can pass or turn safely.

It is efficient. Tests prove that, when compared with plain window-glass lens, it increases the useful light 63%. The vertical prisms stop practically all of the light usually wasted and reflect it back to the parabolic mirror. From here it is sent through the horizontal prisms down to the road, where it is needed.

It needs no dimmers. The full power of the light goes through the crystal-clear glass of the McKee Standard Lens and out on the road, below the 42-inch dead-line prescribed by law. Dimming, as well as diffusion of light, is a make-shift and often dangerous—especially on strange roads. Use the McKee and be safe.

It is distinctive in appearance. The clear glass, smoothly finished, with the neat prisms, approximates a cut-glass effect that adds class to any car.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send price, size of lens and model of car direct to us.

RATE INCREASE OUTLOOK AIDS RAILROAD SHARES.

Spirited Advance on the Recommendation that Twenty-five Per Cent. be Added.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Railroad stocks had their inning today, making spirited advances on the recommendation that a 25 per cent. rate increase be granted. The movement substantially benefited the entire transportation division, minor shares recording even greater gains than seasoned or dividend-paying issues.

New Haven made an extreme rise of 4⅞ and Erie first preferred 3¾, while the shares of many low-grade roads, traversing less populous sections of the West and Southwest, gained 1 to 3 points.

Among representative rails, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific mounted 3 points each; Northern Pacific and Great Northern, 1½ to 2½; New York Central, 3¼; Reading and Baltimore and Ohio, 2 to 2½, and secondary coalers, both anthracite and bituminous, 1 to 3 points. Inevitable realising for profits caused irregular reversals later.

Industrials and equipments were eclipsed most of the session by the inquiry for rails, but noteworthy features were not lacking in those groups. Butte and Superior added 5½ points to yesterday's six-point gain on favorable litigation; American sugar rose 2 points on unexpected extra dividends, and shippings, motors, tobaccos and various metals were 1 to 4 points higher at times, although also yielding at the close. United States Steel offered stout resistance to liquidation for profits, fluctuating between 111⅜ and 109⅝, ending at 109⅝, a net loss of ⅜, and furnishing its usual liberal quota. Sales amounted to 1,225,000 shares.

Speculative railroad bonds were strong, but internationals and Liberty issues were irregular, the 4's declining to the new record of 97.52, but rallying briskly to 98.20 on cash, sales at the end. Total bond sales, par value, aggregated $10,200,000. Old United States issues were unchanged on call.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Mercantile paper, four and six months, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling, sixty-day bills, 4.72⅝; commercial, sixty-day bills on banks, 4.75 9-20; commercial, sixty-day bills, 4.71⅞; demand, 4.76 7-16. Bar silver, 99½; Mexican dollars, 77. Government bonds irregular; railroad bonds stronger. Time loans steady; sixty days and ninety days, 5¼@5½; six months, 5¼; closing bid, offered at 4½; last loan, 4½.

For Cargo.

FRENCH RELIEF GIFTS PILE UP.

Yesterday's Donations the Largest to Date.

Volunteer Workers Swamped Caring for Goods.

Children's Day Expected to See Big Results.

The number of donations of money, food and clothing to the French relief cargo yesterday was estimated at more than three times that of any previous day. Subcommittees of the Chamber of Commerce general committee say that, even though the campaign is about to close in order to avoid any interference with the Red Cross drive, contributions of food and other supplies that have been gathered in scores of communities will be coming in to headquarters for a long time yet.

Volunteer workers at the headquarters at No. 224 South Hill street, have been swamped with the task of receiving gifts and giving receipts for them. Last week Mrs. E. Fletcher Scott and about four others were able to handle the work. Monday there were twenty-two workers, and most of them had to stay two or three hours after closing time to finish the day's checking.

WORKERS KEPT BUSY.

Yesterday thirty workers were hardly able to cope with the situation, in spite of the fact that none of the big donations of food had been brought to headquarters. Mrs. Scott was notified yesterday by a large number of organizations that truckloads of food had been collected and awaited orders from the committee.

Today will be "school children's day for the French Relief Fund," and it is expected that an enormous number of small donations will result. A statement prepared by Supt. Shiels and C. S. Hutson of the Chamber of Commerce committee has been issued in printed form to all Los Angeles school children, including several thousand students in private schools.

The general committee will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

FOR BLIND SOLDIERS OF OUR ALLY, FRANCE.

WORK OF MEN NOW AT FIGHTING FRONT IS TO BE SHOWN IN THIS CITY SOON.

An exhibition of the art of the Allies for the benefit of the blind soldiers of France will be opened in Los Angeles in a few days. A feature will be the works of the French and Allies' artists who are still at the front.

There will be paintings, drawings, originals and reproductions, and objects of art. More than 500 works, which may be considered as the most authentic documents of the greatest tragedy of history, and as the most real vision of what those artists have been seeing during long years of the most desperate fighting, will be on exhibition.

Among the most famous names are Steinlein, Jonas, Forain, Scott, Raemaekers, Berne-Bellecourt, Abel Fann, Renouard, Nanel, Laurent Gaell, De Groux, Foulbot, Marechaux, Dauphin, Chaineux and many others.

This exhibition is held under the patronage of the Consul of France in San Francisco, the Consular agent of France in Los Angeles, the French-American Committee, and a large committee of prominent citizens.

Dr. George W. Nasmyth

Rev. Sidney Gulick

Will speak here.

Dr. Nasmyth and Dr. Gulick will both treat of the war in its larger aspects.

TELLS RAIDER PLOT DETAILS.

Secret Service Man was on Board the Agassiz.

Reveals Entire Plans of Ship Captured by Gunboat.

Ordered by Teuton Consul to Wreck Allies' Boats.

The deposition of C. A. Heintz, one of the men captured aboard the gasoline schooner Alexander Agassiz, by the crew of the gunboat Vicksburg, near Mazatlan, Mex., March 17, and bound for some unknown German port, was disclosed yesterday. Heintz was working for the Secret Service Department, and his deposition tells the whole story of the fitting out of the boat, and its preparation for a raiding cruise on the Pacific.

The depositions of Miss Maude E. Lochrane, Charles F. Boston, Arthur Martens (who appears in the Heintz deposition as a Mr. Madden,) Frank Volpert, Hendrick Koppella and Richard Brandt, have heretofore been given, but they related more to details. Heintz was on the inside of the plot.

In his statement Heintz states that he was captured aboard the Alexander Agassiz on March 17, 1915, and that the vessel at that time was using the United States flag. This was done, he says, so there would be no trouble in getting out of the port of Mazatlan. The German colors were aboard, he declares, and they were to be used to signal the nationality of the boat when it reached the high seas.

Heintz says that the Agassiz was to leave port as a merchant ship, but that in reality she was a raider. She had a commission from the German government to raid at sea, and the commission to that effect was thrown overboard when the Vicksburg fired on her, he declared.

CREW OF VESSEL.

The vessel had on board a pilot, three Mexican sailors, one Mexican engineer and helper, and a crew of five, besides Miss Lochrane, Heintz and his wife, making thirteen in all. Several Mexicans were placed aboard as a ruse to get out of port, but they were to be unloaded later, and the ship's company only included thirteen souls, according to the deposition.

Miss Lochrane was the master or commander appointed by the American Consul, being the owner of the ship. She was not actually in command, but Madden (or Martens,) was the real commander. Martens is a German citizen and was born and raised in Germany. Heintz acted as chief engineer, he says.

There were no arms aboard except small arms, he says. The crew had orders to seize every vessel that the captain (Martens) deemed advisable, Heintz says, and the understanding was that they were to take over a larger craft if the occasion arose and they found it more suitable for the purpose.

Heintz says he was at the house of a Mr. Melchers, the office of the German Consul, in Mazatlan, with Capt. Bauman, and they talked over the trip, and what should be done in certain emergencies. That was in February last, and the German Consul asked Heintz if he would be willing to help out the expedition. It was explained that the boat was to be a raider.

SENT FOR GUNS.

Bauman was sent to San Rosalie to obtain charts, instruments, ammunition and arms. Three weeks later he returned, bringing with him one machine gun, but the Agassiz was captured before Bauman met the boat.

Heintz says that Miss Lochrane knew nothing of the object of the trip, she being told that it was the intention to go to the South Sea Islands on a trading expedition.

The witness said that the crew was assembled by Capt. Bauman and Madden (Martens,) they receiving all the necessary instructions from Mr. Unger, the German Consul. All of the crew with the single exception of Charles Boston knew that she was to be a raider, and all but Boston, who posed as an American, took the oath of allegiance to the German flag.

The crew was to get a percentage of the value of all ships sunk, destroyed, or captured. The arrangement with Heintz was that he was to get 5 per cent. of all the ships that the raider was able to capture. The money was to be paid by the German government when the Alexander Agassiz reached Germany.

The hearing of evidence in the action brought against the Alexander Agassiz will be held by Judge Bledsoe on the 24th inst.

Hendrick Koppella, a Hollander, and Charles Boston, who has established his American citizenship, were released from the County Jail yesterday on the orders of United States Attorney O'Connor.

AMERICANIZATION TO BE BANQUET TOPIC.

NEWLY FORMED COMMISSION WILL HOLD FIRST PUBLIC FUNCTION TONIGHT.

The formal launching of the movement for the Americanization of foreigners in Los Angeles county will take place at a dinner to be held at the Alexandria at 6 o'clock this evening. L. N. Brunswig, who has been made director of Americanization for this county, and A. E. Peat, who was director of foreign nationalities division in the Liberty Loan campaign, have co-operated in the arrangements.

Dr. Albert Shiels, superintendent of city schools, has been made chairman of the Advisory Committee. Dr. Byron H. Wilson, superintendent of the Los Angeles district of the Methodist-Episcopal Church, who has been in touch with this movement in various eastern cities; Mr. Bromley Oxnall, who is working to establish "A Church of All Nations;" Vernon McCombs, who is fathering the Spanish-American Institute to be located at the Plaza, and Mrs. Frank A. Gibson of the State Bureau of Immigration and Housing, will make short talks on the subject of Americanization. Representatives of the various large employers of foreign labor, including the railroads and the various bean growers, beet sugar, canneries and walnut growers associations will be present.

At a noon meeting of the same body at the same place the following will speak: Dr. Albert Shiels, Superintendent of City Schools; Dr. E. C. Moore, president State Normal School; United States District Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Dr. John R. Haynes, Harry E. Andrews, L. N. Brunswig and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman.

HE COLLECTS FOR WIFE'S INJURIES.

Because of injuries to his wife, Cora E. Peelle, Morris Peelle was awarded $450 damages against H. G. Appleton, owner of a truck, in Judge Weller's court yesterday. The injuries were the result of a collision between the Peelles' automobile and the truck near Santa Fe Springs August 3, 1916.

The truck was left on the road all night, and during the night a house nearby caught fire and the sparks set fire to the truck, which was destroyed. Mr. Appleton, who said that Mr. Peelle was responsible for the accident, sued him for $2760, the value of the truck. Mr. Peelle filed suit for $5336 for personal injuries to Mrs. Peelle, contending that the driver of the truck had been negligent.

NAMED ON CIVIL SERVICE.

Mayor Woodman yesterday appointed Benjamin F. Pearson, manager of the Southern California Edison Company, as a member of the Civil Service Commission. The name was sent to the Council and was laid over a week, following the usual custom. Mr. Pearson would succeed Louis M. Cole, resigned, if his name is confirmed by the Council.
